

GOOD government in Italy—and Mussolini's government is "good," even if it is not free—is more interesting, by-products. The first is prosperity. The people have more money. Therefore, says Mussolini, they get drunk. The common fiction of American travelers that the people of wine-drinking countries are sober does not apply to Italy—says Mussolini—except when it is caused by poverty. Cheap as wine is in Italy—says Mussolini—the people were too poor to buy much of it, even at the low prices. But now that they have money—says Mussolini—they spend it to get drunk. So he has closed up 25,000 wine shops, and threatens to close as many more as may be necessary to keep them sober. He may even make them pull up a lot of vineyards, so as to raise less wine and more food. For—and remember, it is Mussolini who says this—wine is intoxicating, and the people are getting drunk on it, and dying of alcoholism. He thinks it is the business of the state to sober them. Is this a slander on Italy, on wine, and on "personal liberty"? Perhaps. But remember, it is Mussolini who says it.

THE Constitution of the United States is fallible. It was written by errant men, and is sacred and changeless. So you have heard, or words nearly to this effect, from the orations of a million schoolboys, instigated thereby by certain persons who know exactly what they want. Doubtless they are right. But try this on your thinking apparatus. The pruned association, on which depends the prosperity of that most noble of California products, has just failed. What killed it? The answer is—the Constitution of the United States. They had a similar situation in Greece. So the government formed a current association, passed a law compelling all growers to join it, and then regulated the prices and conduct itself. The same thing happened with rubber, in the Malay peninsula, with sisal in Venezuela, with coffee, in Brazil, and with numerous other products. All the growers joined, because the law required them to do so. And, with them all in, successful cooperation was relatively easy. The pruned growers tried to get in, not all, but near enough to all for control, of the growers. An industry can not exist in half-cooperative and half-competitive. If a considerable minority of it is competitive, so must the rest be. This has happened with prunes. Most of the growers joined, but enough remained outside to render it futile for the others to continue. So the whole thing is given up, and word is sent out to the growers each to look out for himself. The remedy is simple enough. Pass a law, as the other countries have done, requiring all the growers to join. Then the rest would be easy. Why is it not done? And the answer is—the Constitution of the United States. If such a law were passed, in this country, it would be unconstitutional, and the courts would set it aside. In other countries is not unconstitutional, and even if it were the courts could not set it aside. Does this destruction of the Prune Association reflect credit or discredit on the Constitution, which did the work? This is not to answer the question. It is to challenge you to use your brain, not your memory, to think it out for yourself.

THE "Dole hop" to Hawaii is on. May one who has just returned from Hawaii, and who has long known James D. Dole, whose name these flights have made a household word, venture some information about the man himself. "Jim" Dole celebrated his graduation from Harvard by going to Hawaii, where another branch of his family had long been eminent, and there demonstrated that a white man can labor with his hands under the tropical sun. He took up a "homestead" claim and worked it himself. Experimenting with pineapples, he became convinced that a canning industry was feasible. So, with his own savings and a few thousand dollars invested by friends, he started growing pineapples. Three years later, his first annual pack would be enough to keep his own cannery going thirty minutes now. That was only twenty-five years ago. Now, still young and full of ambition for the future, his company is farming 18,000 acres of pineapples on the island of Oahu, and produces one-third of the canned pineapples of the world. All the rest is also produced in Hawaii by other smaller but more numerous companies, which have followed in the industry which he founded. Now he has just bought a whole island, paying over $1,000,000.

Judge Elbert H. Gary Is Dead

DEATH HAS NO EFFECT ON MARKET

ELBERT H. GARY

Banking Interests Buy to Prevent Break, Brokers Believe; Trend Upward

CONSIDER SUCCESSOR

Nathan Miller and James Farrell Are Viewed as Possibilities for Post

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, died in his home here at 3:40 a. m., today. He had lived until October 8, he would have celebrated his 81st birthday.

Death of Judge Gary was announced at the offices of Nathan Miller, attorney for the steel corporation.

He had been in ill-health for the last few weeks and there had been many rumors from time to time he was more serious than reports which came to the public would indicate.

Little information as to the financial condition was available. Though he died early this morning, announcement of his death was withheld until just before 11 a. m.

Chronic myocarditis was given as the immediate cause of his death, a disease which is an inflammation of the muscular wall of the heart.

Slight Drop In Steel

Financial circles had long expected Judge Gary's retirement from the steel corporation and this, coupled with the knowledge that he was in failing health, had caused the stock market to prepare for such an eventuality as occurred today. Although when reports reached the market at the opening today, saying that his condition was "worse," there was steel, announcement of his death caused little immediate disturbance and such trend as there was in the market was upward.

Before the announcement of Gary's death, United States steel was as low as 130½, but after the death was announced it held close to the opening level of 131½, to which a rally just before the announcement had carried it.

There was every indication in the stock market that plans had been made by financial interests to support the market systematically and prevent a break as the result of Judge Gary's death. By noon brokers were convinced that bankers were in the market buying heavily. The trend of the market continued steadily upward.

Instead of breaking, the price of U. S. Steel went up during the hour following the announcement of Gary's death almost with every sale and by noon had touched 132½. General Motors was selling higher and other stocks which might have been affected showed much strength. Dealings in United States steel were few but in other stocks the market was active.

Judge Miller Mentioned

Judge Nathan Miller, who made the announcement, is among those who have been mentioned as a possible successor to the veteran chief of the steel corporation. Pierre duPont more recently has been considered a possible successor.

As the day wore on, Wall street began to consider James A. Farrell, president of the steel corporation, as another possible successor of Gary. For years Farrell has remained in the background and directed the carrying out of the policies which Gary, as supreme chief of the company, laid down. Farrell, financiers believed, was in complete agreement with Gary's policies.

Judge Gary was one of the outstanding figures of all time in the world's financial history. He started life working on a farm near Wheaton, Ill., where he was born Oct. 8, 1846. He attained his education in Wheaton college and in the University of Chicago. His first job away from the farm was as a grocery clerk, at $12 a week. Later he became a court stenographer and finally was admitted to the bar in 1867 in Illinois.

He served two terms as a county judge in Du Page county, Illinois, and it was then he became known as Judge Gary—a title he carried throughout his life. He entered the steel business through the legal department, becoming attorney for the Federal Steel company, after moving to Chicago to enter law practice there.

He finally became president of the Federal Steel company and in

NINE PLANES WILL FACE STARTER IN DOLE RACE

Navigational Performances Near Perfect

(By United Press)

OKLAND AIRPORT, Aug. 15.—Approximately one day before the start of the Dole air race to Hawaii, the frequently changed entry list appeared to have settled at nine.

Disqualification of one of two struggling entrants was concluded all but official. This was Frederick Alexander Giles, Australian aviator, entering a Hess Bluebird biplane from Detroit.

Giles was reported prepared to hop for the coast tonight, many hours past the qualification deadline set for 10 a. m., today.

The second straggler, Capt. William P. "Lone Star" Erwin, Dallas, was expected to pass final tests with his "Dallas Spirit" and take ninth takeoff position.

Takeoff Order Arranged

Conceding Erwin's qualification, the flyers will form in a half moon line at noon tomorrow and at the starter's gun, take off for Honolulu and $35,000 in cash prizes in the order:

1. Bennett Griffin, in the "Oklahoma."
2. Norman A. Goddard, "El Encanto."
3. Maj. Livingstone Irving, "Pablo Flyer."
4. Jack Frost, "Golden Eagle."
5. Auggie Pedlar, "Miss Dora."
6. Charles W. Parkhurst, "City of Peoria."
7. Martin Jensen, "Aloha."
8. Arthur C. Goebel, "Woolaroc."
9. Capt. William P. Erwin, "Dallas Spirit."

They will take off at two-minute intervals.

Lt. Ben Wyatt, department of commerce inspector, said: "Giles may qualify on his arrival, but not in time to make the race. The inspector ruled that all entrants must wait 24 hours after qualifying before taking off across the Pacific."

The nine are those remaining after a disheartening—three times tragic—process of elimination had directed its force upon an original list containing 15 entries.

Three Entrants Killed

George D. Covell and his navigator, Lt. Frank Waggener, were killed, as was Capt. Arthur V. Rogers, British war ace. Capt. James L. Giffin and Ted Lundgren narrowly escaped death when their triplane crashed off Bay Farm Island, necessitating their withdrawal. These aviators all were entered from California.

Withdrawals included those of Frank L. Clarke, with the "Miss Holyday," and R. G. Fowler, entered for Edmund J. Moffett, one of the first backers of the Ernest Smith civilian trans-Pacific hop. The predicted disqualification of the Australian Giles completed the eliminations.

Contest officials have noted navigational performance nearing absolute precision in the test flights. Capt. Paul Schluter, navigator for Martin Jensen, Honolulu aviator, directed the monoplane "Aloha," over a 35-mile test course so perfectly that Inspector Wyatt said: "He was so close to 100 per cent that I couldn't tell the difference."

The excellent work of the marine navigators signed by the aviators to steer them across the Pacific proves that navigation by sea and navigation by air are pretty much the same," Wyatt said.

Nicola Sacco Breaks Hunger Strike

BOSTON, Aug. 15.—On the 30th day of his hunger strike, Nicola Sacco broke his fast today by drinking two cups of beef tea, shortly before noon. The prisoner, who began his hunger strike on July 17 as a protest against the secrecy of Gov. Alvan T. Fuller's investigation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case, started taking nourishment as a result of new pleas from his wife and counsel and the prison physician.

Scotts Demand Hearing Before County Jury

MORE TESTIMONY regarding the Russell Scott case, which caused the dismissal of Deputy Sheriff Roscoe Knight, followed by the resignation of Chief of Police Ed McClellan, was heard by the county grand jury today as it resumed sessions after the holiday recess. McClellan's resignation was filed yesterday with Sheriff Sam Jernigan.

Demanding to be heard by the grand jury and intimating that he intended to expose "motives" behind the alleged beating of his son by Knight, John Scott, of La Habra, father of Russell Scott, appeared at the courthouse today with Russell and W. H. Davis, also of La Habra. Davis, said to have been an eyewitness to the arrest of Russell Scott by Knight in La Habra last Thursday, was summoned before the grand jury by Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins, acting in the absence of District Attorney West.

Scotts May Be Heard

It was expected that the Scotts, father and son, also would testify. Both intimated that the name of Russell Scott's estranged wife would be brought into the story they intended to tell the grand jury.

Scott claimed to have been severely beaten with a "sap," wielded by Knight, when the ex-officer came to arrest him at the home of Chris Schneider, Scott's father-in-law, in La Habra. Scott had gone to the Schneider home to attempt reconciliation with his wife, he said. Knight came to arrest him on a non-support charge, filed by Mrs. Scott. Scott demanded to be shown a warrant and Knight had none, but insisted on taking Scott into custody anyway. Scott was jailed after a fight in which, he charged, the officer not only beat him with the sap, but also drew a revolver and threatened to shoot.

The case being reported to Sheriff Jernigan, he promptly dismissed Knight and issued a statement denouncing the officer's conduct. McClellan, who had accompanied Knight to the scene of the arrest, had been under suspension for several weeks. He filed his resignation Sunday.

Pilot August Loose Declares He Did Not Wish to Risk Plane Over Dangerous Atlantic

GIANT TASK BAFFLED AIRMEN

(By United Press)

DESSAU, Germany, Aug. 15.—Germany's first effort to conquer the Atlantic ocean in a heavier-than-air craft failed today. The Junkers monoplane Bremen, one of two which left yesterday morning for the United States, returned this afternoon, the plane and pilots baffled by their task.

The monoplane Europa, sister ship of the Bremen, was forced down at the city of Bremen last night.

Fog and wind defeated the Bremen. Pilot August Loose told the United Press that he had reached the Irish coast when he decided it expedient to return.

Loose was at the controls of the Bremen during the flight of 1875 miles.

"After smelling the fogs of the Atlantic," he said, "we decided not to risk the airplane in a fight against adverse winds."

"We" turned her nose toward home.

WATTERSON BOOKS SEIZED BY STATE

BISHOP, Calif., Aug. 15.—The specter of further financial disaster hovered over Owens valley today with the announcement by the state corporation department that an investigation would be launched into all enterprises operated by W. W. and Mark Waterson, bankers.

The Waterson brothers, who controlled the five Inyo county banks, which recently closed their doors, operate the Waterson Brothers, Inc., a holding company; Natural Soda Products company, the Eaton Land and Cattle company, the Tungsten Products company and the Coso Hot Springs company.

Books and records of all except the Coso company have been seized and are in the custody of Arthur E. Johnson, department auditor. The investigation, entirely separate from the bank, is to determine whether the Watersons have violated the corporate securities act by issuing stock contrary to their permits.

Johnson is expected to make a report on the $1,000,000 holding company under which the brothers operated a garage, hardware and general store and sold stock in them.

Riverside County Supervisor Dead

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Aug. 15.—Frank P. Wilson, 67, Riverside county supervisor and veteran Southern California peace officer died in his home here today of heart disease.

During his 41 years residence here, Wilson was closely identified with fraternal affairs. He was a member of the Masons, Elks and Odd Fellows.

Agreement For Sale Of Register To Ohio Man

ELYRIA, O., Aug. 15.—Former State Senator J. F. Burke today announced the sale of the Elyria Chronicle Telegram, which he established 25 years ago, to his partner, A. C. Hudnutt, formerly of Albion, Mich.

At the same time Burke announced that he had purchased the Santa Ana Register, a daily newspaper in Santa Ana, Calif.

Burke will retire from the Ohio newspaper field on September 1, when he will take charge of the California property.

The foregoing United Press dispatch (carried also by the Associated Press) is substantially true, but is premature to this extent, to wit:

That a contract for the sale of the Register to Mr. Burke was signed at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and a deposit was made in the First National Bank of Santa Ana to bind the bargain; but the sale has not been and cannot be completed until on or about September first.

Chief Defense Lawyer Says No Solution Has Yet Been Found

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—Apparently no nearer a peaceful settlement than ever, Charles Spencer Chaplin today was resting at Del Monte, while his attorneys hastened preparations for his appearance in court next Monday as defendant in Lita Grey Chaplin's suit for divorce.

Rumors that a settlement out of court was imminent, the result of Mrs. Chaplin's third proposal of terms, were denied this morning by Gavin McNab, chief defense counsel.

"Efforts to enact a settlement have been under way for four months, in fact still are under way and probably will be up to the time the case is called in court, if it reaches that stage," he declared.

No Solution Yet

"But I can state that no solution has been found as yet."

Presence in this city yesterday of Chaplin, together with Nathan Burkan and Gavin McNab, attorneys, and Edwin T. McMurray, uncle and chief counsel for Mrs. Chaplin, was believed responsible for the latest settlement rumors.

McNab denied knowledge of McMurray's presence. "McMurray's home is here," he said, "and his being in the city at the time of our conference with Mr. Chaplin meant nothing. We did not know of McMurray's presence until we read it in the newspapers."

In the meantime, the defense continued to organize its forces for the trial. Latest developments included the arrival here of bookkeepers and accountants from the Chaplin offices in the east, enroute to Los Angeles for the examination of the studio's books, which will be introduced in the trial.

While Chaplin and Burkan rested at Del Monte, McNab continued his preparations here. McMurray departed last night for Los Angeles, where it is rumored Mrs. Chaplin is about to make charges which will name from one to six prominent actresses as involved in her marital troubles.

Chaplin had no comment to make upon the approaching trial.

Won't Discuss Case

"I have returned to California for the purpose of my case," was his simple statement. "I do not wish to discuss it at this time. Now if you would like to know about the progress being made by the motion picture industry," he concluded with a smile.

After this short interview he was "in conference" with his attorneys until he departed for Del Monte.

After a day or two at Del Monte Chaplin will continue to Los Angeles, which he has not visited in eight months.

A statement by Chaplin just before his departure announced his intention to contest being made by the motion picture industry, he said he would produce new picture, "The Circus," will be ready about Christmas time.

ATTORNEY REFUSES TO TALK OF AMENDMENT

ELBERT GARY,
HEAD OF U. S.
STEEL, IS DEAD

that capacity came to New York City in 1898.

In March, 1901, came the announcement that the United States Steel corporation had been formed and a syndicate with a capital of $200,000,000 organized to finance it.

Judge Gary became its first president and, although Morgan was the man behind the scenes, he has been generally regarded as the founder of the corporation which became known as the "first billion dollar corporation."

Interesting Character

Throughout his career Judge Gary was one of the most interesting characters of the financial world. He was always optimistic on America's business outlook.

"Hit the first kicker on the head with a shovel and throw him out," was a slogan which, figuratively, he followed many times in this long business career.

"Pity the foolish, blind pessimist," he often said.

For five years there had been talk of Gary's retirement from the steel corporation, but he always smiled at these reports and often indicated that he never proposed to retire—and he never did.

Among his friends Gary was known as far from the gruff and domineering man financiers so often are found to be outside the office. He delighted in social visits which friends paid to his offices and on these occasions would talk on a wide variety of subjects. During the last several years his birthdays have been marked by interviews, dealing usually with the lightest of subjects, and with gatherings of friends in his office.

Just what his fortune might be no one today could say. In 1915 it was estimated at $50,000,000, but in the 10 years following it doubled, trebled or even went beyond that, financiers said today. Many persons ranked him among the upper 10 of the country's richest men.

GARY'S DEATH LOSS TO BUSINESS WORLD—HOOVER

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—When informed... by the United Press of the death of Judge Elbert H. Gary, in New York, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover commented as follows:

"Mr. Gary was one of the greatest industrial executives in this country and his passing is a distinct loss to the American business world."

Of this perhaps more in another article. This pineapple culture is absolutely the most perfect scientific agriculture in the world. The man who is "king" of it, who rose from a homestead to the command of unlimited millions and the dominance of a great industry which he created, is tall, slender, unassuming, gracious, public-spirited, generous and efficient, and has the frantic admiration of the people of the Hawaiian Islands. Now his name has been broadcast to the world as the newest patron of long-distance aviation. He is a real man, a great business executive, and a good sport.

Sells Land For Million Dollars

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Wilbur Voliva, overlord of Zion City and its religious colony of Zionists, has added one million dollars to the colony's treasury by selling a tract of its "consecrated ground."

Although Zion City was once adorned with signs which said, "Every foot of this city is consecrated ground and belongs to God—the land is leased not sold," Voliva told his followers that he had sold a tract for one million dollars to an unnamed purchaser.

He said the demand for the property was so heavy that he could see no reason for holding on to all the land John Alexander Dowle, founder of Zionism, left.

HOOVER CONFIDENT OF BOULDER ACCORD

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, here on a survey of industrial and commercial progress in Southern California, expects to see action on the Colorado and Mississippi river flood control problems by the next congress.

Secretary Hoover expressed confidence that an amicable agreement between the states affected by the proposed dam at Boulder canyon would be reached at the meeting of executive of the various states in Denver.

He said that the Colorado river problems paralleled in many respects the control of the Mississippi river.

Hoover will spend a few days at Catalina Island on a fishing trip, returning to Washington the latter part of the week.

He predicted that Los Angeles would have a population of from five to seven million within 15 years.

"The planes will be heavily loaded and there may be false starts or crackups. If the crowds surge over the field it would probably result in death or injury to men, women and children."

Under orders from navy headquarters, the destroyers Meyer and Sumner were enroute today to their positions beneath the trans-Pacific air route. The Meyer will be stationed 100 miles out of San Francisco and the Sumner 200 miles out. All other vessels along the sea lanes have been instructed to watch for the flyers.

WHERE YOUR $ DOES ITS BEST

Try Breakfasts that "stand by" you

Say Business Heads If Draggy Mornings Hold You Back—Quaker Oats Widely Urged RECENT commercial investigations show that almost 70% of the day's important work in offices, stores, etc., falls into four short, before-luncheon hours. Likewise, 80% of the day's important classes in nearly every school and college in America fall, too, into the same period.

Thus breakfasts of well-balanced, complete food—food that "stands by" you through the morning—are being urged widely today by experts.

Quaker Oats, containing the excellent food balance of protein, carbohydrates, minerals, vitamins "B" and the essential laxative "bulk" of oats is ideal food for that purpose.

No other cereal grown compares in food balance. Delicious and the essential laxative "bulk" of oats is ideal food for that purpose.

Start now with Quaker breakfasts. Note then your mornings. Grocers have Quick Quaker (cooks in 2 1/2 to 5 minutes) and regular Quaker Oats.

NIGHT POLICE SQUAD WILL BE ENLARGED SOON

The Santa Ana police department's new light patrol, announced by Claude Rogers, chief of police, several days ago, will become a reality Wednesday night, Rogers said today.

The new squad, made up of two officers, shotguns, and an automobile will patrol the residential sections of the city on the south side of Santa Ana. The present "shotgun" squad will then patrol only the north side, thereby giving each squad more time to patrol all the residential streets, and thus giving residential sections twice as much police protection as it has ever had before.

"The object of the new squad is to give more protection," Rogers said today, "and although the placing of the new patrol on duty is simply a tryout at this time, I feel that the work they will be able to accomplish will show the city council and the city manager the necessity of having two squads instead of one, as has been the case in the past," Rogers said.

Rogers will not be here to determine the work of the new squad himself, as he leaves tomorrow for the northern part of the state on a vacation jaunt. Sid Smithwick, assistant chief, will have charge.

Officers Lentz and Swain have been detailed to man the new car. Swain has been taken from the traffic department at Fourth and Main streets and Lentz is from the night force.

Officers on the "old" squad are Wurtz and Dean. The tryout will be held for two weeks, or until the first of September, the new squad using a machine that Rogers leaves when he goes away. Rogers has stated that the department needs a new machine if the squad is to be made permanent.

RIVERSIDE TO OPEN FAIR ON SEPTEMBER 27

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 15.—Directors of the newly formed Forty-sixth Agricultural district, having received their commissions from Governor Young, have taken up their duties as executive committee members of the fifteenth annual Southern California fair to be held here September 27 to October 2.

Due to an appropriation for the fair authorized by the last legislature, the organization of the committee had to be changed somewhat. Directors of the agricultural district in charge of the fair, Oscar Crowell, widely known in Southern California, succeeds J. E. Wherrell as president. Mr. Wherrell was compelled to relinquish the post when elected to the legislature.

Other directors are August Rohrbacher, Nuevo, vice-president; Cecil N. Funk, Riverside; C. L. McFarland, Riverside; A. S. Cooper, Riverside; S. R. McDougall, Riverside; R. E. Dillon, Beaumont; W. F. Eldridge, Corona, president of the Farm Bureau. It is expected that Harry G. Wells will be elected treasurer of the fair to succeed La Roy Simms, who has been compelled, by the urgency of private affairs, to sever his connection with the association.

Cecilia G. Cravens, who has been with the fair for a number of years, remains at her post as secretary.

The division superintendents, as announced yesterday, are: horses, F. L. Hall; cattle, G. W. Thomas; swine, F. A. Langdon; sheep, John T. Hamner; goats, Thomas Mitchell; junior fair, M. A. Kip; poultry, R. Powell; agricultural and horticultural, H. A. Lynn; child welfare, Riverside County clinic; domestic arts and crafts, Mrs. W. M. Hoagland; fine arts, W. W. Riddell; educational, E. E. Smith; poultry, pigeons and rabbits, E. I. Hammond.

The fair dates have been arranged this year so that there is no conflict with any other exhibition in Southern California.

Announcement is expected to be made within a few days of the complete program, which will include, probably, several features included in the fair program. An effort is being made to have several persons of international interest present at least one day during the fair.

Extensive repairs and improvements have been made on the fair grounds, which will give the exhibition the finest setting it has as yet enjoyed.

Five million dollars a day is expended by the women of the United States in the effort to keep themselves beautiful.

CHURCHES IN THIS COUNTY JOIN MERGER

German churches in Anaheim and Orange are in the list of churches that will join the merger of the California German conference involved in an amalgamation of the California German conference and the Pacific Coast Swedish conference with the Methodist Episcopal church approved Saturday by the joint commission giving consideration to the merging of the two church branches with the Methodists. The merger will become effective October 1, under the agreement reached by the representatives of the three church organizations. The joint commission met at Pacific Palisades, Santa Monica.

Of the German churches involved, two in Oakland, two in San Francisco, and one each at Santa Rosa, Stockton and San Jose, will be merged with the California conference which has its headquarters at San Francisco, while the three German churches at Los Angeles and the ones at Anaheim, Orange, Hollywood, Pasadena, Escondido, Fresno and San Diego will become affiliated with the Southern California Conference, which has its headquarters at Los Angeles.

All of the 17 Swedish churches, among which are those of Seattle, Mount Vernon, Spokane and Venaborg, Washington, Portland and Salem, Oregon, and Berkeley, San Francisco, Kingsburg, Pasadena, Fresno and Los Angeles, will be attached to the Southern California conference as mission churches, and their pastors will be appointed and their financial affairs administered by the Southern California conference.

NO PETITIONS CIRCULATED BY BANK PATRONS

No petitions are circulated among Santa Ana patrons of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank, to be presented to the controller of the currency, asking that this institution jointly with the First National Bank of Los Angeles, be allowed to use name of the First National-Consolidated Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles, the new name for the consolidated concern, in this city, inquiries revealed today.

In connection with a controversy over the use of the name "First National" by the consolidated Los Angeles concern in cities outside of Los Angeles, where it has branch banks, J. K. Hermon, manager of the Santa Ana branch of the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank, gave out the following statement after having consulted the head office in Los Angeles over the long distance phone. "The hearing on protests against the name has been set for August 17 in Washington, D. C."

"Henry M. Robinson, president of the consolidated bank, states that the controller of the currency had given full consideration to protesting banks and has selected and given the name of the First National-Consolidated Bank and Trust Company of Los Angeles as the new name of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles."

At 5:30 p. m. the picnickers enjoyed a supper, after which the Glendale shop furnished music for dancing.

SUMMER MOUNTAIN DWELLERS ENJOY VARIOUS DIVERSIONS

Eagle's Nest, Cobblehurst, Bark 'N' Run Inn, Fern Bank, Rocky Point, Knox Inn, all the amusing and appropriate names chosen by Santa Ana summer dwellers at Forest Home for their delightful cabins, have rolled trippingly from the tongues of a host of visitors who have been entertained there during the summer outing season.

For "Santa Ana-In-the-Mountain" seems always to attract a never ending stream of visitors, and for these, is offered a wide range of attractions. There is a constant coming and going, not only of visitors, but of the cottage dwellers themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rowland and their daughter, Miss Barbara, returned at the end of the week, after having spent the greater part of the summer in their cabin where they were joined each week-end by their older daughter, Miss Ninette Rowland. Their early return was dictated by the fact that school and college season is just around the corner, and Miss Ninette will soon leave for Los Angeles, to resume her studies at University of California in Los Angeles.

An Eagle's Eyrie The J. H. Scotts are also among those returning to the city after many weeks in their cabin, "Eagle's Nest." Theirs is one of the most delightful spots in the whole reserve. Eagle's Nest is perched on a stone cliff jutting from the face of Sunset peak, and below it is spread the whole panorama of valley and mountains. Mr. Scott has constructed a broad smooth road to the eyrie, wide enough for an automobile, and has blasted room in the cliff face for the garage connected with the house. Visitors are greeted by a sign telling them to rest in the chairs left for them on the suspended balcony, and enjoy the view. Needless to say the invitation is always accepted—and deeply appreciated, for it is one of the most beautiful views of the entire summer resort, especially so at sunset.

"Bark 'n' Run Inn, the summer place of the Barker and Runyan families, is another favorite haunt of visitors, who never fail to find delight in the well-tended grounds that W. D. Barker has discovered, and by a few ingenious touches, converted into startling likenesses to people and animals. The artistic little cage in the front yard which he has constructed for his famous find, the red bat, (genus chiroptera, colorado) is always of outstanding interest, while his well curbed, with its old oaken bucket and gourd dipper, is truly a rock in a weary land for the thirsty mountain hiker.

The John E. Gowen cabin has seen a succession of guests all summer for Mrs. Gowen has entertained many of her friends, one or two at a time. Miss Minnie Childs has been an interested and interesting visitor on different occasions. Mrs. Carey of Pomona has also been entertained in the Gowen home, and won every one who met her by her charm.

Afternoon of Cards During the progress of her visit and that of Mrs. Emmet Elliott of this city in Knox Inn, as the guest of Mrs. W. G. Knox, Mrs. Gowen gave a very delightful card party, introducing the meriment of court whist to her guests.

In playing, Mrs. Charles Carothers took first prize, Mrs. Knox second, and Mrs. Elliott, consolation. The guests were quite as amazed that their hostess managed to find such charming gifts in a mountain resort, as they were at the beautiful linen and silver which marked the serving of home-made cakes, ices and sweets of the tea menu which followed cards.

In the list of guests were Mrs. Carey, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Knox, Mrs. Charles Chapman, Mrs. Fred Rowland, Mrs. A. D. Hancock, (who with Mr. Hancock, comes from New York each summer to stay at the Inn in Forest Home), Mrs. Parsons, the inn hostess, and Mrs. Carothers, who with Mr. Carothers and their daughter, Miss Margaret, are vacationing at Torrey's. Miss Barbara Rowland was also a guest, and aided Mrs. Gowen in serving refreshments.

Mrs. Elliott was entertained by Mrs. Knox and Miss Marjorie Knox for over a week of her vacation from duties at the Register office, and was joined over the last week-end by one of her sons, Frederick Elliott, who accompanied Mr. Knox on his weekly trip to camp. During her stay, Mrs. Elliott gave an evening of readings at the inn pavilion.

Soloist Is Enjoyed Robert Bradford who has been a frequent week-end visitor in the Dr. John McAuley cottage, has made himself a general favorite with all summer dwellers at the resort, by his courteous response to never-ceasing demands for songs, and has given informal concerts at practically every visit.

Among Santa Anas who have been hosts and guests at the resort during the last week or so, have been the John Cochrans of Orange avenue, who are still at their cabin; Dr. and Mrs. John McAuley who have entertained a bevy of young people including the Misses Mildred and Ruth Vieira and their brother, Harold Vieira, and Robert Bradford, Dr. and Mrs. Elliott Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Goodwin and Mrs. Runyan, who are on the list of steady summer dwellers. Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Head whose cabin, "Rocky Point," is one of the most luxurious and attractive to be found in Forest Home, have been entertaining Mrs. Head's sister, Mrs. McFarland of Fullerton, and also Mrs. Harold Knight, formerly Miss Iris Head, and daughter of the hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chapman with their daughters, Miss Viola and Mrs. Ray Hill (Clive Chapman) are enjoying their charming mountain home with its luxuries of

Mountain Picnic Adds To Summer Joys of Ebell Section

The fact that Ebell society as a whole, does not function during the summer months, has no bearing on the activities of individual sections of the society, and many of these maintain a desultory social organization which resulted in many happy experiences, lacking the formality of true club activities. Of such was the outing shared late in the week just ended, by members of the sixth household economic section, who motored to Forest Home to enjoy a picnic in the John E. Gowen mountain home, with various members who are vacationing in that popular resort.

So early was the start from Santa Ana, that the picnicers had a long lively day to devote to the pleasure of friendship and surroundings. They had taken with them, such appetite provoking delicacies as baked ham, which sliced in tempting pink curls, a variety of salads, rolls which were soon rendered piping hot, and a variety of similar picnic fare. All were arranged on one long table, which was a popular spot to appetites sharpened by the long drive and the crisp mountain air. Mrs. Gowen had baked flaky lemon pies to add to the watermelon which had been chosen as a dessert course.

Motoring up from Santa Ana were Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks, Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Mrs. Fred Zaiser, Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mrs. John P. Baumgartner, Mrs. Frank Paterson, Mrs. John Clarkson and Mrs. W. D. Baker. Reaching the Gowen home, they were joined by Mrs. Charles Carothers, Mrs. Helen Heil, Mrs. S. M. Davis, Mrs. F. W. Wieseman and the hostess, Mrs. Gowen, sister members, and a guest group which included Mrs. Carey of Pomona, a guest in the Gowen cabin, and Mrs. Davis' cousin, Mrs. Chase, and also Mrs. Howard Hamlin (Laura Davis) of Kansas City, who with Mr. Hamlin, recently arrived for a late summer visit before the opening of the medical school which the latter attends in Kansas City.

Quartet Will Enjoy Week in North Charles E. Walker of the West Coast-Walker theater, left this morning for a day's business in Los Angeles, and will be joined there this evening by Mrs. Walker, after which they will leave on the Lark for San Francisco.

There they will join Mr. and Mrs. George Wells for a week's vacation tour of the Bay district and many pleasant side trips. Mrs. Wells sailed for San Francisco late last week, shipping their automobile so the party would have it for their ramblings through Northern California. All will motor home together.

ANNOUNCEMENTS The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First M. E. church will make its August meeting an all-day beach party to be held Wednesday in the summer home of Mrs. P. A. All are to meet at the church for a start at 10:30 o'clock, and members having extra room in their automobiles are especially urged to be present early.

Fourth Birthday Is Made Happy Event Betty Ellen Mitchell, four years old on Saturday, August 13, was a charming little hostess on that date to a group of children of about her age, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Mitchell, 1056 West Sixth street.

Games were played on the lawn under the direction of Mrs. Mitchell, who also served a delicious birthday feast at a table decorated with pink and white rosebuds and with nut cups and other appointments in harmony with these adornments. The favors were "crickets" dressed as dolls, each in a different costume. There was a large pink and white birthday cake, and another cake which afforded much pleasure to the guests. It was baked with whole animal cookies inside, and when cut each child received an animal in its slice.

Betty Ellen received many gifts, which were taken from their packages and presented after each child had selected the package it wished to open.

Little ones who enjoyed the day with Betty Ellen were Dorothy Ellen Davenport, Mary Charlotte Hoover, Frances Jean Hunter, Edith Wilde and Jimmie Valentine, Jr.

Los Angeles Girl Saved From Water Exhausted after a battle with a heavy current, Olga Brain, 14, Los Angeles, daughter of Alfred E. Brain, a member of the Los Angeles Symphony orchestra, was rescued at Laguna Beach Saturday by Hugh De Rubertis, 16, also of Los Angeles, and an unidentified man.

The Brain girl had entered the water alone and when about 150 feet from shore got into difficulties. Young De Rubertis immediately started to reach her side but because of the heavy current was unable to make any headway toward shore. He called for help and the unidentified man came to their assistance and together they brought the girl to safety.

GEYER-GILBANK WEDDING IN BRIDGES HALL, CLAREMONT

To Pomona College students who fall victim to the wiles of Dan Cupid, is granted the enviable privilege of staging their wedding ceremonies in beautiful Bridges hall, the college chapel, so it befell very naturally that the nuptial service which on Saturday afternoon, August 13, united Theodore Gilbank, Pomona College man, and Miss Mary Geyer, should take place in that spot, so dear to college traditions.

It was a ceremony of much beauty and charm, and took place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, after a pipe organ program of nuptial music, played by Walter Hartley, head of the music department of Occidental college. The program also included a vocal solo, "Nocturne" by Curran, beautifully sung by Douglas Hodson of Beverly Hills.

A wealth of pink amaryllis lilies combined with ferns and smilax, blended with the mahogany fittings and dull blue draperies of Bridges hall, in a setting of striking richness and beauty, for the ceremony enacted. As Lohengrin's Wedding March floated on the air, the wedding party took its place in the harmonious scene.

All in Bridal White Miss Geyer's bridal gown of snowy chiffon and dainty lace, gleamed under the folds of a veil first worn by Mrs. Floyd Geyer, and which has brought happiness to four smiling brides. The veil was arranged to fall from a chaplet of orange blossoms, and a cluster of bride roses showered with lilies of the valley, added the final touch of charm to the costume. Miss Geyer entered the chapel on the arm of her uncle, E. W. Smith of this city, and was given to him, in marriage.

Her sister, Miss Lucille Geyer of Hollywood, was the pretty honor maid, and was gown in peach chiffon, with an arm full of yellow rosebuds adding their charm. Dainty little Barbara Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson of Inglewood, was flower girl, and wore pale pink georgette and lace with a wreath of pink rosebuds confining her blond curls.

Miss Carolyn Finley of this city, as bridesmaid carried pale green chiffon and carried yellow rosebuds, while Mrs. Harold Bowen as the third in the trio of attendants, completed the rainbow effect of the gowns with her frock of blue and orchid chiffon and a cluster of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Bowen was Miss Marian Hickman, one of the long list of lovely brides of June.

Fraternity Brothers Aid Mr. Gilbank's attendants were all chosen from his fraternity, Mu Alpha Phi, as were the organist and soloist, Messrs. Walter Hartley and Douglas Hodson. Wendell Lorber, head of International college, Guadalajara, Mexico, assisted him as best man, while the remaining two attendants were Loren Yoast of Los Angeles, and Charles Easton of Claremont.

Dr. Raymond C. Brooks, dean of religious education at Pomona college, conducted the solemnly beautiful ceremony, assisted by the Rev. Morfeet Rhodes, pastor of St.urgeon Memorial church of this city.

Reception in Patio As the final vows were taken, the organist sounded the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, to which the wedding party repaired to the patio where an informal reception was staged. A feature of the refreshments was the beautifully decorated bride's cake, cut by the new Mrs. Gilbank. The work of art was the gift of W. D. Baker, close family friend of the young people.

The young couple left later on the Emma F. Alexander for a honeymoon in Vancouver. For sailing, Mrs. Gilbank wore one of her pretty trousseau costumes, a compose in the new Deauville shade. This will remain in the north until early September, and

4000 PERSONS
AT ADVENTIST
CAMP SUNDAY

"The greatest war in all history, the two greatest famines in the world, a pestilence destroying 20,000,000 people, earthquakes of the severest consequence, have all come within our present generation," declared Elder Alonzo L. Baker, editor of the Signs of the Times, in his lecture Sunday evening, at the Seventh-day Adventist camp meeting on the Orange county fair grounds.

Jesus Christ left definite signs of his return, the speaker affirmed, and without the belief in Christ's second advent, Christianity is only half complete. "The three greatest earthquakes in all history have come in 1920, 1923 and 1927. The most appalling famines in the history of man came in 1919 in Russia and China. The World War has dwarfed all other wars." All of these signs the speaker declared to be the fulfillment of Matthew 24:7 that Jesus Christ would return to earth in this generation.

"Lawlessness is a sign according to Matthew 24:12. Today crime is costing our nation ten billion dollars annually. There is a death by suicide, homicide or murder every 24 minutes of the year."

A feature program of music began at 7:30 p. m. last night when the Y. M. C. A. quartet, of Anaheim, and a program by Dr. John F. Gerhardt, of Los Angeles, were presented.

The mission offering of the encampment has gone beyond $3,000 to date. Nearly $2500 in cash and pledges were received at this service. Meetings continue throughout the week in the regular program.

The largest attendance recorded so far was present at the camp meeting Saturday and Sunday, when 4000 Adventists crowded the tents on the fair grounds.

Medical lectures are held each evening at 8 o'clock. Junior, primary and kindergarten hours find enthusiastic groups of youngsters attending the meetings.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Because letters from his old home in Norway indicated the belief that practically the whole of the United States had been inundated by the Mississippi flood and that gang warfare and shootings were a normal part of American life, Olaf Skramstad, county engineer at Fergus Falls, Minn., has taken representative motion picture views to Norway with him on a visit, according to information received here.

Mr. Skramstad took the pictures himself with an amateur motion picture camera. He photographed characteristic scenes, his family, and friends in America. In Norway, in turn, he intends to take movies of relatives for his Fergus Falls neighbors and to show them in America when he returns.

SAVED, DEMANDS HAT NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—While a cutter was taking several deportees to a liner about to sail for Italy, one Giuseppe Sacco, seeking either escape, a bath or suicide, jumped overboard. Anyway, he was seized by the swift tide and was nearly drowned when a seaman finally pulled him ashore. Sacco turned on his panting rescuer and demanded, "Where's my hat?"

Whether the closing date will be extended has not been decided.

GIVE FOOTBALL
SCHEDULE FOR
U. S. C. TEAMS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—The 1927 football season appeared in the offering today when Arnold Eddy, chief of the University of Southern California ticket department started distributing applications for tickets for the Trojan games that will be played at the Coliseum here.

The outstanding at-home games for the Trojans are against California, Washington State and Washington.

Blanks have been mailed to last year's season ticket holders, Eddy announced.

Half of the seats in the big bowl have been sold for the California contest with the first game of the year more than a month away.

U. S. C. students and alumni have been allotted 20,000 seats for the Golden Bear game, 6000 are set aside for season ticket holders, and California's alumni and student body will claim 12,000. This leaves some 35,000 seats on the open or curved end of the coliseum.

The 1927 schedule for the Trojan gridirons is as follows: Sept. 24, Occidental; Oct. 1, Santa Clara; Oct. 5, Oregon Argles; Oct. 15, Stanford at Palo Alto; Oct. 22, Caltech; Oct. 29, California; Nov. 12, Colorado; Nov. 19, Washington State; Nov. 26, Notre Dame at Chicago; Dec. 4, Washington

SUIT STARTED TO OBTAIN OIL LEASE

Superior Judge James L. Allen was today hearing the suit brought by J. S. Horn against W. J. Williams to compel Williams to deliver an oil lease upon Huntington Beach property which he agreed to give to Horn, it is claimed.

The lease is said to be held in escrow by the Security Trust and Savings bank, which refuses to deliver it without instructions from Williams. Thirty acres of land are involved.

Williams contends, in defense to the legal action, that Horn did not fulfill provisions of the agreement with him.

Police News

Three men, charged with vagrancy, were arrested here last night. They are: John Corbin, 52; Juan Santacruz, 37; Thomas Lemmon, 50. Officers Perry, Wolford and Adams made the arrests.

Traffic cases in police court Saturday were for minor violations. The following were fined: L. Lucio and Julian Herrin, failure to make boulevard stop, $3 each; N. Morgan, operating a machine without a muffler, $3; Paul Beckman and H. F. Plough, overtime parking, $2 each.

Released on bail of $50 following his arrest at the Santa Fe railroad station last Friday night, C. E. Staples, Santa Barbara, failed to appear in Judge J. F. Talbot's court yesterday and his bail was ordered forfeited. Staples was charged with being drunk and carrying concealed weapons.

No one was reported injured when an automobile driven by G. L. McMullen, 23, 1716 Toberman street, Los Angeles, collided with a car operated by A. L. Brown, San Diego, late last night at Seventeenth street and the Buena road. Police were given a report of the accident.

Stanley Wells and Ralph Twitchel, both of Huntington Beach, were paroled from the county jail Saturday. Wells was given a $200 fine on a drunk charge at the beach city and came to jail to serve a term instead on June 21. Twitchel was in jail in connection with the same case, charged with reckless driving.

Laurence Hadin 19, Placentia oil worker, was arrested last night and lodged in jail on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor. Officer Buckles made the arrest.

T. L. Scudder, 1513 West Eighth street, reported the theft of a five gallon tank, a box of assorted bolts, three gallons of oil and several tools from a warehouse at his place Saturday. Sheriff's officers are working on the case.

S. A. AVIATRIX
MAY BE FIRST TO FLY OCEAN

Sacha "Peggy" Hall, Santa Ana aviatrix, may be the first woman flyer to fly the Atlantic.

And her male companion on the long hop over the ocean may be a Santa Ana flyer, Eddie Martin. The woman known today when Miss Hall admitted that she had received an offer to make the Atlantic hop from J. F. Shay, 347 Madison avenue, New York. Shay is believed to represent a New York daily newspaper.

Miss Hall said the proposition at first was that she fly alone, but that she wired Shay that in case she attempts to make the flight she will have to take a navigator along with her.

Miss Hall admitted that for this place, she was seriously considering Eddie Martin, who taught her to fly at his Santa Ana airport three years ago.

The type of ship to be flown, the preparations to be made and the monetary inducement offered were not detailed in the telegram exchanged so far between Shay and the Santa Ana aviatrix, she said. The Santa Ana woman flyer said she was not afraid to make the trip, as she believed a woman flyer can do anything that a man flyer can do; but when it comes to maritime expertise she admits that she is not too well versed.

Miss Hall is one of the women to be granted International Aviation Federation licenses.

She is very well known in Southern California and has given exhibition flights at several air meets.

At the present time she is engaged in commercial flying with headquarters at the Martin airport.

She expects further word today from Shay, she said.

WEST COAST WILL PRESENT FEATURES

One of the most stupendous exhibition deals in the history of motion pictures, negotiated between West Coast Theaters, Inc., and the three major film producing organizations, involving a figure approximating five million dollars, has just been announced by Harold E. Franklin, president of the exhibiting organization.

Arrangements, now being completed, provide West Coast theaters with the pick of the pictures from the seasonal output of the foremost producers, to be presented in over three hundred West Coast theaters from Canada to the Mexican border, and insure the very finest photoplays for presentation over the West Coast circuit during and following "West Coast Greater Movie Season," which starts officially August 18.

According to Franklin, the negotiations include separate contracts for the entire product of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount Famous Lasky Corp., and United Artists.

The five million dollars to be expended by West Coast theaters, represents rentals to be paid on motion pictures.

The following pictures will be available to Santa Ana motion picture fans under the terms of the transaction:

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Student Prince," an Ernest Lubitsch production starring Norma Shearer, "Annie Laurie," "Ben Hur," "The Big Parade," "The Garden of Allah," "The Crowd," "Rose Marie," "The Trail of '98," "Quality Street," John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in Edmund Goulding's production, "Love," from the story, "Anna Karenina," Lillian Gish in "The Wind," with Lois Moran; "Trelawney of the Wells," with Norma Shearer; and "Romance," with Ramon Novarro and Margaret Day.

From Paramount Famous Lasky: "The Underworld," with George Bancroft; "Swim, Girl, Swim," starring Bebe Daniels; "We're All Gamblers," with Thomas Meighan; "One Woman to Another," "Madame Pompadour," starring Dorothy Gish; "Tell It To Sweeney," introducing the new comedy team, Chester Conklin and George Ban- croft; "The Big Sneeze," starring Wally Beery; "Shanghai Bound," with Richard Dix and Mary Brian; Adolphe Menjou in "A Gentleman of Paris"; Douglas MacLean in "Soft Cushions," and the Fred Thompson special, "Jesse James."

We are prepared to offer our patrons the best that is obtainable even though it involved an enormous financial obligation."

"West Coast Greater Movie Season" will mark the launching of this mammoth exhibition program, but it will not mean that this is our policy only for the duration of the season. This is only the beginning. This practice of offering the pick of the pictures will be a definite one."

L. A. VISITORS AT
MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

That mankind must strive towards kingdomness, thus learning to rule each life for the good of all others, was the statement of the Rev. Frank Porter when he addressed the men's community Bible class yesterday morning. The Rev. Mr. Porter took as the subject for the lesson, "David's Restoration of the Ark" and "The Worship of God."

Music was provided by Herschel Clayton and Hazel Miller LePage who sang "Take Up Thy Cross," and little Miss Ruth Rimmel who sang, "It's a Bear," and "Lord, Wait Till I Get Through."

An item of interest was that 140 men were present at the services while only 115 were present at the meeting of one year ago.

A delegation from the First Christian church of Los Angeles was present.

GENEVA, Aug. 15.—Monsignor Besson, the Catholic bishop of Geneva, Lausanne and Fribourg, has just decreed that women attending churches in his diocese must wear long skirts and have their arms and shoulders covered.

Women who do not conform to these "elementary" regulations of decency, will not be admitted to sacraments, and priests must pass them by, without comment, when they present themselves before the altar. Printed regulations are posted on the doors of all the churches and priests are enjoined to enforce the order with tact and firmness.

Two men were rescued from possible death yesterday afternoon by the crew of the Harry J. Bauer yacht "Arrow," when a fishing craft, Twin X, was observed to be on fire several miles off the Newport coastline. The two, giving their names as Jack Visch and Irene Dipie, and their residence as 372 Eighteenth street, San Pedro, were adrift in the water when the yacht arrived on the scene.

In broken English, the rescued men described how their engine in the boat had exploded, sending Visch hurtling through the air into the sea.

Dipie leaped in to save his partner, but the boat almost immediately became a mass of flames, and the two were at the mercy of the sea without other means of support but their own strength.

Shocked from the explosion and from being thrown forcibly through air into the sea, Visch was unconscious when pulled from the water by the yacht crew.

The two fishermen were brought to Newport Harbor and taken to the Newport Beach hospital for treatment. When they had recovered from the shock of the experience, they were able to return to their home.

From the explanation given by the two men, their boat was a fishing boat owned by the West Coast Fishing company of San Pedro.

Will Get You Well

YOUR BODY AT ONE TIME FUNCTIONED NORMALLY, AND IF GIVEN THE CHANCE WILL DO SO AGAIN. PINCHED nerves are the cause of most human ailments, and by removing this pressure we are able to restore permanent relief from your sickness or disease.

WHY DOES YOUR FOOT FALL ASLEEP WHEN YOU CROSS YOUR LEGS? SIMPLY BECAUSE YOU ARE PRODUCING pressure upon the great sciatic nerve, thus cutting off the nerve force to that extremity. A spinal pressure acts much in the same way. It is difficult to walk when your feet are numb, likewise the organs or parts of your body will not function properly when they do not receive the proper amount of nerve energy.

Town Talk

By C. F. S.

Sometime when you are on your way to Anaheim, if you get by the county hospital, you will, if your eyes are open, see a beautiful sight just a short distance this side of The Log Cabin. It is a flaming eucalyptus.

It did not escape the attention of Joe Belren, a Chicago landscape artist. He has painted the tree, as have a number of other artists.

Bierren visits Southern California almost every year. He says that Orange county is enchanting, lavishly favored by the Creator, and that it's natural beauty is not receiving nearly the publicity that it deserves.

Which made us think that we better act promptly, as some ugly gashes are being made in the hills, fires devouring the forests, commerce crowding out pastoral scenes, syndicates acquiring ocean frontage, and greed grabbing and tramping the wild flowers.

Notice to all vacationists: Come home. The special sessions of the grand jury are over.

An acquaintance of ours asks us if the game of golf was dirty—that it was always finished with a shower bath. That fellow knows just a little less about the game than we do.

Ruty Rutan was in Paris three months and toured Paris.

BEAUTIFUL BUT DUMB

She WAS a beautiful girl. You just couldn't help but notice her—because she was partly dressed.

She was on her way down town, her mind revolving around her personal appearance, when one of those large, overripe, wine-hued Satsuma plums decided to leave home. The terminal was just in front of the young lady. The sudden stop was too much for the Satsuma. It turned inside out, and as for distribution The Register's circulation would take second money.

You know what one of those Satsumas can do when it decides to spread itself. That girl will never look the same.

The inventory of damaged shoes, hose, dress, etc., was made at a glance and without the aid of a certified audit. There was justifiable anger on her two-tone profile, and then we overheard her say:

"Well, I think Judge Allen should do something to change that law about gravity."

Believing in a city beautiful we would suggest that some of

FINEST HORSES ON COAST WILL SHOW AT FAIR

Prominent Los Angeles, Hollywood and Beverly Hill fanciers of fine horses, directors of the Orange county fair and Horse Show association announced today, will sponsor valuable stakes in the forthcoming Orange county horse show set for September 7, 8 and 10.

The City of Orange voted to sponsor a $300 stake, according to John Ragan, of Villa Park, chairman of the show, to be known as the Orange Community Stake.

According to Elbert Deffenbach, of Los Angeles, horse show manager, the following sponsors were today enlisted in Orange county's second annual horse show event:

C. C. Magenheimer, and G. C. Magenheimer, of Los Angeles, sponsoring a $300, 5-gaited stake, Class No. 5, for stallions, mares or geldings; The Misses Cecelia Hoyte de Mille, Hollywood, and Josephine Thomas, Beverly Hills, sponsors of the $300, 3-gaited Class 11, for stallions, mares or geldings; The Beverly Hills Bri-

COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER FLAYS WILD REPORTS

Lurid Tales of Creeping Death in California Are Said to Be Groundless

Taking issue with a story published in eastern newspapers, to the effect that a creeping death in form of poisonous spider bites are terrifying women in Southern California and that as a result there have been several cases of blood poisoning in Orange county hospitals, Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer, today in a public statement denounced the newspaper story as exaggerated and savoring of yellow journalism.

The opening paragraph of the newspaper article, written by Robert W. Spurge, to which Dr. Presson takes exception, reads as follows:

"A creeping, crawling horror is spreading death and terror on the Pacific coast. It is the invasion of the 'Black Widow', venomous, gruesome, tropical spider, which is baffling scientists and which has already taken a toll of human life at a rate that may eventually overshadow the flu epidemic of war days."

The writer goes on to say that the presence of this sinister, loathsome insect was first discovered in Los Angeles; that scientists in that city declare it to be the deadliest spider that has ever been discovered in North America; that it is blamed for scores of deaths since the first of the year.

Mention of Orange county is had in the following paragraph:

"Since then health officials admitted that more than a dozen cases of blood poisoning in hospitals in Orange and Los Angeles counties were actually caused by bites of this tropical terror. The spider plague is growing. Men, women and children go about in stark fright of encountering the hideous messenger of Eastern death which has invaded their land."

Here is what Dr. Presson has to say about the situation:

"It has come to the attention of the health department that there has been considerable publicity given in the eastern newspapers regarding the appearance of the 'Black Widow' or Latrodectus Mactans spider in Southern California. The stories that we have seen have been the usual lurid type, so frequently used by the writers of yellow journalism."

"There is such a spider existing in Southern California but it is nothing new, for the Department of Agriculture states that it has been here many years. It is not very common and not usually found around places of habitation. The articles mentioned above have described the situation as being extremely alarming and that several deaths have occurred in Los Angeles and Orange county. To my knowledge there has never been a case of this spider bite in Orange county, much less any deaths. After consulting with the state board of health, I find that over a period of several years 15 cases of this spider bite have been reported in various parts of the state. Many of the people so bitten were extremely sick, anywhere from 24 to 72 hours, but none of them died. The majority of these cases resulted from the use of outdoor toilets."

"The articles appearing in the eastern newspapers apparently were written by some reporter who had no knowledge about the subject of which he was writing and had made no investigation whatsoever, but simply claimed large numbers of deaths, stating in his article that they 'died by the score'."

"The spider is poisonous and causes sickness but it is not fatal. It is described as being small, black, shiny, and has a red spot on its abdominal side."

Mrs. Anna Caulfield Also Has Been Married on 2 Previous Occasions

GROOM IS 83 YEARS AND BRIDE IS 69

Santa Ana Woman Heard Of Husband Through Tales of Early Exploits

The third time's the charm, so the old saying goes, and William H. Young, 83, known all over the southwest as Apache Bill, and Mrs. Anna Eliza Berry Caulfield, 69, who came west in a covered wagon and who is one of the real pioneers of this section, firmly believe that their marriage, performed last week, will be the last for either. Both have been married twice before.

The marriage of this sweet faced woman and the man with a constant twinkle in his eye, refutes the belief that only the young can have romance, for their meeting resulted from the publication of a newspaper article concerning Apache Bill, and their love blossomed while the Indian fighter was near death from illness.

During the time that Mr. Young was seriously ill in Mrs. Caulfield's home at 704 Mabury street, with Mrs. Caulfield as his nurse, the two found many things of mutual interest to talk about, for it was Mrs. Caulfield's interest in frontier life that led her to write Mr. Young after she had seen his picture in a newspaper.

Reads of Exploits

The romance had its inception in the summer of 1925, for it was at that time that the article and picture concerning Apache Bill and his exploits was published. Mrs. Caulfield hesitated at first about writing to a stranger, but her interest in the deeds of the noted Indian fighter prompted her to write him a letter, in which she explained that she was shy about communicating with a stranger, but had decided to do so to secure further information about his exploits.

Mr. Young, who was at the old soldiers' home at Sawtelle at the time, promptly wrote and assured Mrs. Caulfield that he was delighted to hear from a pioneer woman of the west and asked permission to call on her in Santa Ana.

The gallant Indian fighter made several visits to the Mabury street home. The longing for a home resulted in Mr. Young asking Mrs. Caulfield if she would consider taking him as a boarder. This she consented to do.

In the year that followed the man who fought dozens of battles with the Apaches was ill most of the time and his nurse was Mrs. Caulfield. Their friendship ripened into love and Apache Bill "popped the question." The answer was "Yes."

Had to Wait

But the course of true love seldom runs smooth and the couple met with a serious difficulty. Mr. Young's divorce from his second wife was not final, so they had to wait until the way was cleared, legally speaking, for their wedding.

Last week word came from Mr. Young's attorney that he was free to wed again and the happy pair went at once to the marriage li-

CITY COUNCIL TAKES FINAL ACTION TONIGHT ON BUDGET AND ALSO FIXES TAX RATE

The city council will take final action on the Santa Ana budget for the coming year at tonight's meeting and will fix the tax rate for 1927-28 at that time, City Manager E. B. Collier stated today.

Collier would make no predictions as to what the action of the council will be or what figure the tax rate will finally rest on. The budget question has occupied much of his time for the past few weeks, however, and it is understood that every attempt is being made to keep the tax rate as low as possible.

The ordinance fixing the rate will come up for its final reading tonight. The council has had the temporary budget requests of the various departments in its hands for over a week. Ample time for studying the various phases of the financial situation has been afforded and it is believed that very little time will be necessary for the final action on Monday night.

The total amount requested for the coming year is $476,196.62, exclusive of the items of additional equipment and operating expenses desired by the department heads.

The latter figures probably will be the first to be cut if any slashing has to be done, it was learned. Collier estimates that a portion of these items can be taken care of without raising the tax rate. It is expected that transfers from miscellaneous funds which have surpluses will make this possible and will enable the city to have a balance of $69,514.45 on July 1, 1928.

That the city can operate on a tax rate of 1.35 by proper manipulation of the budget and efficient management, is Collier's belief. Although this feat may not be possible this year, Collier believes it to be practical in the future.

Two other ordinances are to have their final readings at tonight's session, one providing for the appointment of a plumbing inspector and the other making it possible for the city to have an electrical inspector on its payroll. The ordinances also regulate plumbing and electrical installations.

Three committees will report at the meeting. Councilmen McBride and Knox, with Clyde Jenken, city engineer, will report on the advisability of a proposed extension of the water lines in the northwest part of the city.

Councilmen Goode, McBride and Kelly are expected to make recommendations regarding a gravel pit operated by J. R. Gilliland, at Western avenue and Eighth street. Residents in that region filed a letter with the council at the last Three persons were slightly injured Saturday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding with W. C. Murdoch, 1719 Morton avenue, Pasadena, overturned on the Newport highway after colliding with another machine, coming from the opposite direction, according to a report filed with the sheriff's office this afternoon.

cense office to secure their license. Then, a few days later, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen as witnesses and Judge John F. Talbot, their next door neighbor, pronouncing the marriage words, they became man and wife.

They don't plan a honeymoon, this happy couple, for, as they explain it, "We're not young any more and we're content to just stay in Santa Ana."

Mrs. Young, who will be 70 years of age next month, came across the plains in a covered wagon while a very young girl, but because everything was so strange, the events made a lasting impression on her mind. She was married at the age of 20 years to J. S. Berry, a farmer, who lived near her father's place in Nevada. They came to Santa Ana some 44 years ago, when this city was but a struggling hamlet.

Many years after Mr. Berry's death she married Will Caulfield, whom she divorced after a brief married life. Four of her children, Charles Berry, an employee of the local post office; Frank Berry, Los Angeles; Mrs. Anna Palmer, 330 South Birch street, Santa Ana; and Mrs. Nellie Brunkelman, Compton, are living.

Fearing by Indians Mr. Young, who has two daughters and a son living in Los Angeles, was the Apaches' most feared enemy, for it was while their prisoner when a young boy that he learned their ways. He was stolen from his parents while a small lad and held for six years, finally making his escape during a raid.

Because of his knowledge of the Indians, he was chosen as the pony express rider when the famous Butterfield route was open in 1860 between El Paso and San Francisco. From the beginning of the mail service until he enlisted with the Union army, he rode the pony express from Camp Grant to Tucson and from Tucson to Camp Crittenden. At the conclusion of the Civil war he again became a pony express rider.

Many were the thrilling escapes from death. Hating and fearing the intrepid rider, the Apaches made vain efforts to scalp him but always his knowledge of their ways saved his life.

Now, after a strenuous life of fighting Indians, Mr. Young is ready to settle down. He has started to write a book of his experiences and promises that "there won't be a dull moment in the whole thing."

Is the third time the charm? Well, the happy newlyweds are convinced that they are "charmed" and will enjoy a happy wedded life.

Open Journalism School In Russia

MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—A school for journalists was opened some time ago in Russia. Lessons are given by experienced journalists and by lawyers. The school is divided into two parts, the historical part and the technical part. The pupils are taught politics, economics, social and legal questions are explained, and literature plays a great part. They also learn all the details which go to make up a paper; arranging the pages, the study of the different printing letters, photographs and stereotyping. The school is sub-ventured by big newspapers and should produce journalists who know their business well. But unfortunately the press is not free in Russia.

LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Aug. 15.—Mrs. C. M. Glazier left Wednesday for a visit at Berkeley.

Mrs. Emma Sweeney and Mrs. Sarah Barber spent several days last week at Long Beach. While there Mrs. Sweeney was the on-oree at a picnic at Bixby park given by a number of old neighbors, former residents of Alva, Mo. Eleven families were represented. Mrs. Sarah Wilber and son, Paul, and grandson Charles Bahne, of Los Angeles, are spending 10 days at Rock Creek canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Brown, of Wasco, spent several days the past week at the E. N. Brown and J. A. Brown home.

Mrs. H. E. Hart is expecting her sister, Mrs. Sadie Hayward, of Albany, N. Y., to arrive in La Habra soon for a month's visit. Mrs. Hayward visited here three years ago.

Mrs. Bruce Stanford and daughter, Anna, Mrs. sister, Mrs. W. E. Beattie, of Hollywood, have been spending the week at Balboa.

TEMPLE THEATER

He was bashful—and dreamed that he was brave and bold. He was shy of girls—and longed to master them. He made a study of girls—and feared them.

Every girl who spoke to him struck him dumb! Every girl who came near him scared him silly. But, though in real life he fell far below his idea of a conquering Romeo in the world of ideals into which he retired when his day's work was over, Harold was an expert with the girls. So expert, that he was writing a book that was to be his gift to the world—a book that told the secret of making love by "One who knows, and knows, and knows."

At last the book was finished and he took the manuscript to a publisher in the city. On the train every seat was occupied save one, which was next to a starry-eyed miss. And in the short ride to the city she accomplished what no other girl had ever done—she made him forget his shyness, and he told her of his novel.

Then followed days of dreaming of the time when he would be successful and rich and could tell the girl how much he loved her, but all his hopes were crushed when his story was not accepted. So he told her that he was only experimenting with her and she, out of pique, became engaged to another. But, on her wedding day he received word that his story would be published as a humorous book and called "The Diary of a Boy." He also discovered something about the bridegroom that sent him on the world ride that makes Paul Revere's look like a baby parade.

Jean Winslow's singing of "At Sundown" opens the act. The progress of the season is the accompaniment of such appropriate numbers as Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," Tosti's "Goodbye" and similar well-known selections. All this is as a background for some remarkable Russian dancing.

BUSINESS MAN IS WRITER OF SONGS

has a large number of mechanical devices to his credit. Among these, it is said, is the first visible gaso-line gauge to have been perfected.

Less than a year ago a sudden urge came upon Mr. Cole to write a song. He found the song seemingly already in his mind, felt almost a compulsion to write it. This song was followed by many others for which he has written both words and music in this short space of time. One of his Indian songs that has been played recently in a number of the larger theaters of Los Angeles is, "The Indian Runner." Another of his Indian songs is "Wah-Wah-Tay-See." Mr. Cole has written a number of ballads, lullabies and popular songs. At present he is working on "He's a California Booster."

In addition to having unusually combined talents, Mr. Cole has a most unusual family, which consists of two sets of twins, Jean and George, and Kernell and Channing.

While in the city Mr. and Mrs. Cole and the twins have been guests at the home of Mrs. N. E. Wells and Miss Verna Wells, 219 Halliday street.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

The feature film at the Yost Broadway theater, First National Pictures' "Lonesome Ladies," is a light but thoroughly enjoyable and entertaining vehicle presenting Lewis Stone and Anna Q. Nilsson at their very best.

It sparkles with situation comedy, "gas" comedy, genuine whimsical humor, and amusing titles. However, there are touches of pathos, just enough to lend contrast to the multitude of bright spots. Some good supporting actors and five of the screen's most beautiful women in correspondingly beautiful costumes add to the entertaining quality of the picture.

At the background, however, and the part that will probably please you most and cause you to remember "Lonesome Ladies" is the wholesome and altogether delightful romance between the husband and wife of the picture, enacted by Mr. Stone and Miss Nilsson.

The story concerns a wife who thinks that her husband's love is growing cold. When a fascinating widow who was the husband's flame of younger days tries to "vamp" him, his wife leaves to become one of a group of six "bachelor ladies" in an apartment called Liberty Hall.

YOST THEATER

It was as an understudy that William McFadden, the handsome young leading man of "Abie's Irish Rose," began his stage career. At the time when he first became involved with stage fever, McFadden was a cartoonist on the staff of the New York Tribune.

He was the leading man of a Brooklyn dramatic society, an organization that played the most pretentious drama. When he determined to make the stage his life profession and sought a position as an actor, he found the amateur experience of little value as a recommendation.

"The best I could get was a job as understudy," he says. "Sam Forrest, the stage director for Sam H. Harris, placed me with 'Welcome Stranger' to understudy several of the characters. There were two of us, a young girl and I, both waiting for a chance to show what we could do. That company remained in a state of very vulgar good health all season. Neither of us got beyond rehearsals. The following summer the juvenile leading man became ill and died. When the company took the road the following season I stepped into his part and have been playing roles ever since. It was mighty discouraging to wait so long, but it came out all right at last."

Other features include travels in Ireland by Will Rogers, an F. B. O. comedy, and always the orchestra and Jack Stern—who by the way, last night gained one of the biggest hands of all with his song number.

"College" will end tomorrow night and then "vacation" will bring W. C. Fields to the West Coast-Walker theater and before very long, "The Big Parade."

FRUIT GROWERS OF STATE WILL SAVE ON RATES

Press dispatches from Washington, D. C., indicate that the Interstate Commerce Commission has reduced the rates of deciduous fresh fruits from California points to Denver, Colorado, and related points, from $1.62 to $1.50 per hundred pounds, and to points thereof from $1.73 to $1.60 per hundred pounds. This reduction will mean an annual saving to the California fruit growers of approximately $3,000,000 a year.

The railroad commission is very pleased with this action of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which comes as a successful conclusion of the efforts of the railroad commission to assist the California Growers and Shippers Protective league in its fight for a reduction of the rates, according to Leon Whittell, of Orange, member of the commission. The commission not only submitted exhaustive exhibits and a great deal of expert testimony, through W. P. Geary, rate expert of the commission, at the hearings before Examiner Beach in San Francisco last March, but sent its attorney, Carl I. Wheat to Washington in June to argue the case before the Interstate Commerce commission in June.

Geary introduced evidence showing that the major California rail lines engaged in this traffic are in a most prosperous and healthy

CHILD'S BEST LAXATIVE— CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

HURRY MOTHER! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.—Adv.

condition, the operating revenue of the Southern Pacific having increased since the year 1911 from $38,692,540 to $46,517,047. In 1926, during the same years the operating revenue of the Santa Fe has increased from $23,667,802 to $55,493,700, and the Western Pacific since 1912, when it commenced operations, has increased its net operating revenue from $11,424 to $4,405,683.

The commission's expert also called attention to the fact that the express rate for deciduous fresh fruits in carloads approved by the Interstate Commerce commission in 1922 now stand at a general level varying from 27.6 per cent to 29.5 per cent above the rates for such service in effect in June, 1918, while the freight rates vary from 40.8 to 50.4 per cent above pre-war levels.

The commission took this action feeling that the old rates were unjust and unreasonable, and constituted a handicap on California agriculturists. The commission believes that the lowering of freight rates will assist in placing the deciduous fruit industry upon a more stable basis and in a more solvent position and will result in affording real and substantial relief in this industry.

The growth of deciduous fruit shipments from California has been phenomenal, increasing from a total of 4411 carloads in 1916 to a total of 86,795 carloads in 1926, and 78,803 carloads in 1926. In 1924, 1925 and 1926 California produced 2,040,000 tons of grapes as compared with 106,700 tons in New York, 60,800 tons in Michigan and 29,100 tons in Ohio, while in 1924 California shipped 6312 carloads of pears as against 9930 carloads from all other states. California also shipped more plums and apricots than all other states combined, the latter being essentially a California fruit which is not produced in any quantity elsewhere in the United States.

Since 1920 the prices received for California deciduous fruits in the East have steadily declined, following the readjustment of economic conditions since the war. At the present time the industry is facing a severe depression, which can be materially alleviated by a reduction in the freight rates. In 1926 transportation costs consumed no less than 48 per cent of the amounts received for units shipped to Eastern destinations.

Balloon Bicycle Made In England

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Now we have the "balloon bicycle." Devised by an English inventor, it is supported in the air by a cigar-shaped envelope filled with hydrogen gas. Below, on a lightweight aluminum bicycle frame, sits the pilot rider, turning with his feet the pedals that operate the propeller at the front. The unique craft, described in Popular Science Monthly, has a rudder worked by handlebars.

GOES ON FIRST VACATION TRIP IN 40 YEARS

A. E. Hawley, Santa Ana sporting goods dealer, left Saturday evening for the first vacation he has taken in 40 years. Hawley plans to spend a week in Sequoia national park with his wife and his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Otto J. Hawley, 614 South Broadway.

Hawley has served the needs of local sporting fans for four decades, almost ever since he came to Santa Ana in 1887. During all that time he has never taken a rest of more than a day or so and has always been on the job when customers wanted ammunition or flies.

In the early days, however, a man could shoot all the game he wanted without searching more than a few blocks to find it. A vacation wasn't quite so essential at that time.

Hawley and his wife plan to take a trip east next year to his old home in Vermont. At that time he will probably retire from active business life.

New York Takes Up Reforesting Work This Year

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Figures just compiled by the conservancy department show the reforesting movement in New York state made remarkable strides in 1927, slightly more than 25 million trees being planted.

Cities, villages, towns and counties planted 2,623,000 trees this year. A marked increase in planting was shown by industrial concerns, notably railroads. The railroads are planting forests on unused land which they own. Industrial plantations totaled 2,107,000 trees.

For several years Boy Scout organizations have been interested in the reforesting movement. This year they set out 86,500 trees.

Vienna Crematory Proves In Demand

VIENNA, Aug. 15.—In 1922 the municipality resolved to open the first crematory in the Austrian capital. This provoked the vehement opposition of the Christian social minority and of all the clericals, who objected for religious reasons and even went to the constitutional court, but without success.

The crematorium has been used to such an extent that a second is to be constructed.

ARREST LOCAL MAN FOR L. B. OFFICERS

Preston C. Colneel giving his address as Santa Ana, was to appear today in the Long Beach police court on a battery charge as an outgrowth of an accident which occurred in the beach city Saturday.

According to reports, Colneel's car collided with one driven by A. H. Smith of Long Beach. The two are said to have argued about the blame in the accident.

Following an asserted fist fight Colneel returned to Santa Ana, where he was taken into custody by officers upon complaint of Smith. As far as could be learned neither participant was injured in either the accident or the subsequent battle.

CROP OF LIMA BEANS IS LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Reports from the Lima bean fields of the county indicate that yields of both dry and irrigated fields will be less this year than last.

The long dry spell changed prospects for an unusually big crop of limas into certainty of a short crop. The spell came just as the vines were blooming and the pods were setting, with the result that most of the vines on the dry lands have pods close to the center of the vine and few, if any, pods on the runners.

Estimates from ranchers on the Irvine ranch indicate the likelihood of from twenty to twenty-five per cent fewer beans to the acre this year than last. Most of the dry lands last year produced nine and ten sacks to the acre.

While the crop has been cut by the weather, the loss is not without compensation. It seems likely that the shorter the crop, the better the price.

those vacationists take their lawns with them.

Ralph Mosher, arriving a trifle late at a service club meeting, rushed into the luncheon room so as to avoid a fine. He didn't save any money, because he left his engine running.

Ralph is quite absent minded—at times. He was having a tooth extracted not so long ago and the dentist inquired if he wanted any gas, and Ralph said: "The Needle Eye." It is no place for a one arm man.

Realtors and a few apprentices will picnic Aug. 27 in Orange County park. The date is mentioned so that you may enjoy the novelty of parking on Third street. Drivers who use that thoroughfare call it "The Needle Eye." It is no place for a one arm man.

Not having room for a full grown man, we filled in our sized space in Harvey Gardner's car, and with Attorney Clyde Bishop, Doc. M. A. Patton and our chauffeur we drove to the Orange county tuberculosis and undernourished camp for children, located in the Orange County park, and so far as possible supported by the county.

But the support isn't nearly what it should be, in order to brighten the lives and fill the stomachs of these little children, so private support is given and acceptable, and if you want to get your biggest dividend out of an investment help these kiddies.

We saw Wealth and Unhappiness walking down Fourth street in the same suit of clothes, on our return from the camp; and, defying the warning to judge not least we be damned, we couldn't help but think what a blessed opportunity this man had to help restore to physical normalcy and childish pleasure these little ones whose environment withholds from them sufficient sustenance and does not provide enough fresh air to enable them to get a good night's sleep.

The camp management is competent and considerate. The Orange Lions club had the little ones to the beach for an outing, so we did not get in personal touch. But we would like to have Wealth and Unhappiness get it. And believe us this Wealth and Unhappiness is no imaginary character.

THEY GET THAT WAY
We met one of those tired business men—once. He said he didn't know what was the matter with him, whether it was the atmosphere or the water, but he felt like one of the Two Crows talked, as though he was afflicted with a disease known to Aesculapius as the hookworm drawl. He said he dragged himself to work, dragged about the store, had been dragged home and if he did not get some relief he would be a dragon the rest of his life.

After a few centuries to think it over we have decided that the honest man never got a square deal during Diogenes' time, due to insufficient illumination.

If we can just do it without being cited for contempt, we are going to implore Charley Swann to include the saxophone in the ordinance for the regulation of crowing roosters.

Some one has reported to local aviators that the postponement of the Frisco-Hawaiian flight was due to a loose nut. If they ever persuade us to make that trip we'll be loose all over.

We "choose" not to write any more for this column today.

THE MONTSERRAT

Like a dream castle, rises the monastery of Montserrat, which tradition declares to be the resting place of the Holy Grail. On the topmost point of a great mountain it stands, jealously guarded by forbidding peaks. Weird turrets and ghostly battlements make it seem the veritable citadel of the Holy Grail.

Tradition is a living thing in Spain. It is the foundation of great art and of great furniture design. In the "Montserrat" suite by Berkey & Gay this tradition has been preserved, which embodiment is a triumph of concept and craft.

Lists Five Most Beautiful Things

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A beautiful woman; a beautiful child; a beautiful flower; a beautiful sunset; a beautiful building. These, in the order given, are the five most beautiful things in creation, according to Gordon Seifridge, owner of London's Giclee store.

Seifridge pointed out that a beautiful building was something of a permanent value and criticized the "high and unbeautiful" buildings being erected in the United States.

But other people did not take this spectacle of a blind woman wandering over a strange country so much for granted.

The pope himself pronounced a special blessing upon her, placing his hands upon her head, praying "that for the blind one God may enlighten her sight."

"Sees" Vatican Treasures
It was the pope himself who gave a special order that everything in the Vatican, including the choicest treasures, be presented for her touch.

Blind Miss Adams did not miss a single thing.

She descended into the catacombs with her flickering wax tape while other women screamed and turned back.

"They were gruesome and power."

SIXTY SIGN UP FOR BOAT TRIP TO SAN DIEGO

Sixty juniors and senior chamber of commerce members have made reservations for the Jacobsen boat trip to San Diego on the Ruth Alexander, September 16, when they will be guests of the San Diego junior chamber of commerce.

The transportation and executive committees of the chamber met today at 1 p. m. to consider further arrangements and plans for the 200 delegates who are expected to make the trip.

Francis Westgate, junior chamber member, who is representing the Pacific Steamship company in planning the tour, today stressed the low rates which are offered by the company. Westgate pointed out that the cost of the round trip to Ensenada, which is but one day longer than the San Diego tour, is several times the price made to the junior chamber for its expedition.

"The same accommodations to Ensenada would cost $50," declared Westgate, "whereas we are getting the San Diego trip for $7.50."

The San Diego county fair will be in progress while the junior chamber is visiting there and, although the local delegates will be free to see San Diego as they choose, it is thought that the organization there will provide ample entertainment.

The Ruth Alexander, on which the tour will be made, is a former trans-Pacific liner 455 feet long, capable of carrying 412 passengers. All the staterooms open onto the deck. There is plenty of room for dancing on the glass enclosed promenade deck, Westgate declared.

Mother Of 11 Is Willing Fortune

NORFOLK, Neb., Aug. 15.—Mrs. Elizabeth Carrico, 60 years old, who was notified that she was the heir to the estate of the late Jacob Baker, of Philadelphia and that her share would be around 80 million dollars, declared she is not interested in riches.

Mrs. Carrico, who has 11 children, is the wife of a Norfolk filling station man. She is the great-granddaughter of the late Jacob Baker.

"Just give me a chance to rest and a chance to get cooking and feeding so many mouths," Mrs. Carrico said.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE:

Brave Britons

By Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26

Two fine names have been written by Great Britain into the story of early Arctic conquest—those of James Lamont and Benjamin Leigh Smith. They sailed north in their own yachts in quest of sport and knowledge. Lamont discovered coal in Spitzbergen. As a result mining is now an important industry of a land thought barren.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26.

When Leigh Smith reached Spitzbergen he found a colony of 101 mariners starving amid the Arctic ice.

The chivalrous Nordskiold, head of a Swedish expedition, had found the starving colony and tried to feed them.

All must have perished there, including Nordskiold's men who had shared their food with the unfortunate colony, had not Smith rescued them. We owe to Smith much of our knowledge of deep-sea Arctic temperatures and currents as well as hundreds of miles of new coast line within the Arctic Circle.

For the last 44 years Coghlan has been employed in the composing room of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

OUTCAST CLASS
IN JAPAN
MORE RESPECT

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—The Eta, or outcast class of Japan, is rapidly becoming a political factor and emerging from the forlorn condition in which it has existed for many centuries.

The movement to eliminate prejudice against this class was given further impetus recently when Premier Tanaka invited three members of the Eta to dine with him. This was the first time in the history of Japan that members of the Eta had ever been accorded the honor of dining with the head of the government.

The Japanese generally are Buddhists. Buddhism prohibits the killing and eating of animals. Tradition has it that the outcast class originated with persons who killed animals with which to feed the imperial falcons.

Afterward they became executioners and disseminators of dead bodies. They became known as a "died people" and as such have suffered ever since from social prejudices.

In 1871 Emperor Meiji swept away the distinction between the Eta and his other subjects, so far as legal rights were concerned. But the social prejudice remained, especially in the country districts, until recent years, when the Eta banded together to demand better treatment.

Throughout the rural districts of Japan there are about 5249 outcast districts, with inhabitants numbering nearly 3,000,000.

HOTEL HOLDS SACK;
'MARINE' VANISHES

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—With glib tongue, a gentleman representing himself as Lieut. C. A. Arnold of the United States Marines, stormed the La Salle hotel, did it out of $300 in cash, an officer's uniform and other expenses, and then vanished.

Wearing civilian clothes, "Lieutenant Arnold" told Col. John Thornton, manager of the hotel, that his company of 150 marines would arrive soon en route from Hong Kong, China, to Paris, France. Rooms were reserved promptly. Then the "lieutenant" said he had left his uniform behind. Would the colonel be so kind, etc.? The colonel was so kind, etc.?

A uniform was ordered, but, unfortunately, he had also left his money behind, some $400, and would appreciate it if the hotel would cash his check for $300. The hotel did. And chartered several busses to meet the weary 150 marines, who never came. And looked for the "lieutenant," who had disappeared. $300, uniform and all.

Yes, He Did Not
Rent This Flat

PARIS, Aug. 15.—Having heard that a flat was to be let in a certain district in Paris, a would-be tenant went to see about it. He was immediately discouraged by a short but pointed speech delivered by the concierge.

She said: "The rent is 6000 francs for three rooms, with a three-year lease and option to use the place for business. The paper on the wall needs renewing and the flat will have to be put in electric lights. A premium of 5000 francs is also required."

"If this doesn't suit you, please say so at once, as I have already been upstairs about 50 times to show the flat and if this kind of thing goes on I shall resign."

There was nothing to do but to flee the flat-hunter retired discomfited.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

Poor Clowny surely felt real bad. The accident that he had had just started everybody, and it scared him worst of all. He shouted, "Goodness, look at me. I'm just as sorry as can be. It's my fault that the cave is wrecked. I didn't know I'd fall."

"Well, that's too bad," was Coppy cried. "We all desired to go inside, but now it isn't possible. The cave is full of mud. 'Twas funny when we saw you fall. I'm glad that you're not hurt at all. It seemed the earth began to crack, and then there came a thud."

The Goofy Goos, by now, looked sad. The little home that they had had was gone, and they were wondering where they could sleep at night. Then one stepped forth and said, "Don't fret. Another home we soon will get. You couldn't help your trouble, so it really is all right."

Then Clowny said, "That's fine of you. That shows that you are friends real true. We'll help you look around a bit to find another home." So, all the bunch began to peep around for some good place to sleep. In every nook and corner did the little fellows roam. Soon little Scouty shouted, "Aw, look, look, look! There's a bird. His flying near no one had heard, 'cause he had swooped down on the crowd as quiet as a mouse."

A pelican. Oh, what a thrill! He had some tools right in his bill. A dandy axe, a dandy saw, and also lots of wire. "Oh, this is luck," said Scouty to the crowd. "Now we can build a pretty home. We'll work until we tire."

CHIN STRAPS

Some parts of your body you can neglect, but the chin is not one of them. If you let your nails go for a week, one good manicure will make them almost as nice as ever. But a week's neglect of the chin, if you are over thirty and the firmness of the chin line is going, will do weeks and weeks of harm.

For ordinary treatments, ice and massage and astringents will do. For a really neglected chin, straps may be necessary. These are a nuisance yet they are so valuable, that I must advise them for women of, say, forty or more, or for women of any age who have gotten fat and are losing their chinlines because of too much flesh.

You can buy chin straps of rubber, ingeniously fitted so they hold the chin firmly, letting you breathe properly (and incidentally, keeping you from snoring should you have such a habit) yet clasping the chin so those sagging muscles are held as they should be. You can get the same sort of thing in elastic webbing. Some say the smooth rubber is best as it makes the skin perspire and therefore perspire off superfluous flesh. Some claim the elastic webbing is best because it has friction to it, which wears off unwanted fat. I don't think there is much in it; a chin strap is like a crutch to a lame leg. Use it because for eight hours while you sleep it holds in the chin muscles. Meantime, use massage and astringents to make those muscles strong enough.

You can make a chin strap yourself, if you want. It requires only a long strip of old muslin—strips of sheets are fine. You wind this round the chin and head, making half dozen turns, the straps crossing each other, so as to hold firmly after you have gone to bed. Or, if you do your housework alone, you can bandage the chin while you are at work.

Application Of Lipstick
Requires Care

Applying the lip-stick

BY MME. ANNE GERARDE

For NEA Service

There are hundreds of shades of lip-sticks. Select one that gives a natural tint to your color tone. Your lip-stick should be the same tone of red as your rouge.

Your mouth's size should determine how heavily you redden your lips. Thin lips may be entirely rouged while thick lips and very wide mouths should never be rouged clear to the corners.

Open your mouth and hold your lips firm while marking with your lip-stick. Begin at the center and arch outward, holding stick horizontally to make a cupid's bow. Never outline lips clear to the edge as lip-stick invariably spreads a bit.

When the proper arch is drawn, rub your lips together to moisten the make-up and give it a natural look when your lips open. The very, very red mouth is bad taste. But lips that are carefully made up have added charm.

ROAD'S END

I never go to the end of the road
For my home is half-way down,
And its there I may slip from my heavy load
And be quit of the noisy town.

For what may lie at the further end
I have no great wish to see
And what may be round the dusty bend
Has little charm for me.

For I face to the east at break of day,

To the west with the setting sun
And half-way down I am glad to stay
When the busy day is done.

For nothing beyond my smiling door
Could ever seem quite so fair,
Or worth my traveling, one step more
As the welcome that waits me there.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY TOWNS

NEWPORT FIRE CHIEF IS HOME FROM MEETING

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 15.—Frank Crocker, local fire chief, returned the latter part of last week from the convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs, in Portland, Ore., and is ready to put into effect several ideas which he gained at the convention.

Particular importance was attached to addresses made by speakers at the convention in the matter of fire plugs which are of a larger size than the mains to which they are attached, and the matter of salt water mains.

In both cases, Newport Beach is well protected, according to Crocker. The pressure in the local mains is of sufficient force to allow a large fire plug on a small main, but most of the local by-drains are of the right size for the mains, he said.

Salt water mains are practical for large cities, but are not suited to small communities because of the apparatus and the care necessary to maintaining the apparatus, Crocker was informed by speakers at the convention.

Fresh water obtained in sufficient quantity in the local wells to eliminate the need for salt water mains, it is believed.

New apparatus to be installed in the local department shortly include a metal nozzle stand, capable of directing the most powerful stream of water carried in fire hose onto a fire without the necessity of having several men hold the nozzle, and a Sherk life belt, to be worn by firemen when ascending ladders with hose and other equipment.

Besides attending the Coast association meeting, Crocker also attended the International association meeting, which convened the week following the Pacific Coast association's meeting.

GROWTH IN POPULATION OF NEWPORT REVEALED IN WATER SYSTEM FIGURES

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 15.—Rapid growth has boosted permanent population of Newport Beach to 6500 people, with a summer season population of 20,000, a study of the demand on public utilities indicates.

The federal census of 1920 credited Newport Beach with a population of 843 people. A recent check on the water taps in use in this city show 1900 in use. Figuring a fraction more than three users to each tap, officials have arrived at the figure of 6500 for the permanent population.

The water system can supply a city of 30,000 permanent residents, according to water officials. Reservoirs of 3,000,000 gallon capacity can deliver 1,728,000 gallons per day.

EVENING SALUTATION

The sun set, but set not his hope:
Stars rose; his faith was earlier up:
Fixed on the enormous galaxy,
Deeper and older seemed his eye;
And matched his sufferance sublime
The taciturnity of time.
He spoke, and words more soft than rain
Brought the Age of Gold again:
His action won such reverence sweet
As hid all measure of the feat.

SILVER FOXES, WHY NOT?

We can grow varnish nuts in Orange county. The custard apple and other tropical fruits thrive in our climate. We boast of our fifty-seven varieties of paying products, but because we have fifty-seven is no reason why we should not take on a few more.

Not so long ago an alligator, imported from afar, escaped from his pen in the County park, with the result that a San Francisco newspaper proposed that the Santa Ana river be turned into an alligator farm. While we would like to see the bed of the Santa Ana river serve some useful purpose in addition to holding whatever storm waters it can, the necessity of making the alligators get along without water precluded anything being done about the suggestion.

Moreover, it looked as though Florida, just at that time, was in need of exclusive attractions, and nobody here seemed ready to undertake the growing of alligators in competition with that great state.

It is a far cry from alligators to silver foxes. There are certain points of distinction between the hide of one and the skin of the other, yet each, it is said, can be raised for profit. The one, it seems, is preferred for purses and traveling bags, while there are some people in the world who even like it for shoes. The other carries warmth to cold shoulders, and looks good on any woman's coat.

Looking at the two as possible new industries for Orange county, there surely are certain advantages that might accrue to the fox farm as against the alligator farm. We haven't enough water now to go around, so we hesitate about sharing any of it with ugly alligators. So we might eliminate the alligator from the reckoning, and investigate the feasibility of the silver fox proposition.

There is no doubt about it, some silver fox farms have paid good money. Before we go further with the discussion, we would like to know whether the suggestion for a silver fox farm has back of it a plan for selling a lot of stock on high-sounding prospects. We have had enough of that kind of thing, and do not need any more of it, thank you. Seriously, if somebody wants to come here and go into the business of growing silver foxes as a business proposition—and that, we understand, is the suggestion of a recent visitor to Santa Ana—we can point out to him some of the finest silver fox sites in the world. The Santa Ana mountains are full of sites.

THE BLIND TOURIST

Most travelers have trouble enough seeing Europe with perfectly good pairs of eyes, wherefore they join touring parties under expert guidance. Alameda Adams, a blind music teacher of Cleveland, has returned home after spending a year touring Europe, and reports that she "saw" it completely and satisfactorily.

Miss Adams took a companion with her, but after the first two months traveled alone. With a knowledge of French and Italian and a confirmed habit of taking care of herself, she was able to find her way everywhere and get any help she happened to need.

"I am blind in vision," she says, "but not in feeling. I saw with my ears and fingers. When I came to a great city, I got a guide, and usually a competent one. I challenge anyone to describe the great murals of St. Peter's or the canvases of the Louvre better than myself. I saw them just as people with their faculties of sight see them, because through my mind I stamped the image on my brain."

This will stand out as a notable achievement of a class of handicapped people who are steadily overcoming their handicap. It proves again that people can do what they want to do, regardless of disability, and that when one sense is gone, others may be substituted for it. We are getting far from the days of the blind mendicant who begged because there was nothing else for a blind person to do. Thousands of self-respecting blind folk today even refuse the gift of sympathy, making their own way with complete confidence and self-respect.

MORE TUBERCULOSIS

According to the chief of staff of the Wisconsin Tuberculosis association, there is an increasing number of girls and young women between the ages of 15 and 25 breaking down and entering the state's sanatoria to be treated for tuberculosis. He suggests several reasons for this, such as dieting in an effort to be stylishly thin, wearing insufficient clothing in cold weather, smoking and the strenuous social life that permits late hours and too little rest for growing girls.

Some of these reasons are undoubtedly valid. Fortunately the slat figure, even for the flapper, is no longer stylish and the unwise diet fads will go out with it. Smoking is recognized as harmful to growing youths. The matter of clothing is one that must vary with the locality and the daily routine of the individual. The girl who rides about in a closed car and spends her indoor time in well-heated rooms and her outdoor time in sports costume is not so greatly in need of warm clothing as the girl in climates colder than ours who rides on street cars and stands on windy corners waiting for them.

Probably the most serious and valid of the reasons given is the one about insufficient rest.

MONEY FOR RATS

Bournemouth, England, has a Pied Piper. At least, that is what a certain citizen is called, rather inaccurately, because he makes his living by catching rats. The city pays him 28 cents per rat, and last year, the municipal accounts show, he earned $435.

Not such a fat living, either, if you ask us. It costs him $75 for bait and traps, leaving him only a net of $360, about $1 a day. He could make more than that much an hour in American in any skilled trade—and rat-catching calls for unusual skill, because the rats are highly intelligent.

Nor is it much of a bargain for the city. Over here, rat-catchers are going out of style and off the payrolls. Cities are paying their anti-rat money to make wharves, sewers and warehouses rat-proof. Business men are doing likewise. Solid concrete, for foundations and walls of buildings, with openings screened, eliminates rodents by depriving them of homes and meals. It costs more at first, but pays in the long run.

Do It Right, and In No Hurry

Fresno Republican

Commercial interests in the lower Mississippi valley continue to intrigue for a special session of congress to "do something."

What they do not tell us. For the good reason that they do not care to, just so that we shall continue all to be excited on behalf of the Mississippi valley sufferers.

When congress assemblies, they will be on hand, cautiously and privately, to get government money spent to pull their particular chestnuts out of the fire.

The fact is that there is nothing that congress can do now but that it can do just as well in December.

While what it can do in December will be much better done than now.

Farsighted and thoughtful men will have better worked out the lessons to be derived from this spring's disaster.

Public opinion will be better formed regarding what is the duty of the nation, what of the state and what of private individuals, regarding the reclamation of certain areas.

Above all, the people of the United States should not permit any raid on the national treasury for the mere purpose of providing somebody with more protected land to sell.

Government charity should be extended liberally to the flood victims. But there is no reason in public morals or in common sense to have the government build great protective works to provide certain companies with land to sell, to victims, a few years later to be driven out of these lands by another unexpectedly high level in the "Father of Waters."

If the people of the United States are to spend millions on stabilizing the Mississippi, let us be sure that the money is properly spent.

Not have this money laded out of the treasury by a hysterical sentiment, selfishly urged by certain land-operating interests.

Tomorrow, a Useful Word

San Francisco Chronicle

The foreign office of the Chilean government has banished tomorrow. Senor Conrad Rios Gallardo, the foreign minister, has decreed that the word "manana" must not be used in any document or report, written or verbal. The Spanish equivalent of "tomorrow" is with a seductive cadence, once it is permitted to cast its spell on the mind. Even in our harsher speech, "tomorrow" has a soft and luxurious lure. Abolishing it might make for greater efficiency in office and workshop. Americans may well watch the Chilean experiment. But would not abolishing it bring greater evils than blessings? What other word would do for the man deep in the Sporting Green on Sunday morning and urged to fix the broken shade in the front bedroom? And how else could business engagements be stood off with the other three fellows waiting for you at the first tee? If it happened to be Friday or Thursday, of course, you could say "Next week." But on earlier days that would not work. "Tomorrow" is a very handy word. We had better keep it around ready for use if needed.

SURVEY REVEALS DELINQUENT CHILDREN USUALLY HAVE PHYSICAL DEFECTS

Four hundred children who came to one of the Massachusetts clinics for mental hygiene were studied by an investigator to determine some of the reasons for their delinquency.

Sixty-six per cent came from homes with foreign customs. Forty-three per cent were of Italian parentage, 23 per cent of Jewish parentage and about 25 per cent of American-born parents. The percentage was naturally influenced to some extent by the fact that the clinic in question was located in a neighborhood of foreign-born persons classified as low middle class.

In most of these homes little reading was done, other than in a foreign or American daily newspaper. Actually 83.5 per cent of the children lacked any educational opportunities at home and more than half of them had parents who were themselves to be characterized as ignorant. One-third of the children lacked normal opportunity for play because of the congested neighborhood in which they lived.

An investigation showed that much of the shut-in character of these children was due to the fact that the mothers failed to let them out because of the danger of the immoral associations or accidents likely to occur in the street.

In 51 cases, friction between the parents and relatives at home was constant, and was connected in most instances with drink, gambling and lack of parental responsibility on the father's part. When parents quarrel constantly, the effects on the children are promptly noticeable.

Ten per cent of the children had parents who were handicapped by physical illness, the father being unable to work and the mother being compelled to be away in order to aid the family living.

In the cases of 75 of the children, one or both of the parents were neurotic and mentally unbalanced types. It is significant that 85 of the children who were considered to be the victims of too much solicitude by their parents. In many instances the child was an only child with a neurotic mother.

The Jewish mothers made up 58 per cent of those classified as oversolicitous. The clinic workers felt that this was a part of the Jewish ideals, since the mothers were proud to tell of their untiring devotion to their children especially, in sickness.

The factor of great importance was the physical defects present in delinquent children. One-third had bad teeth and large tonsils or adenoids, or other physical defects which made it impossible for them to get along equally with healthful children in the community.

In practically all investigations of delinquent or retarded children, it is found that a considerable percentage suffer from an easily corrected physical defect.

Sam's Ace In the Hole

"See America First"

Pasadena Star-News

As European nations have stabilized their currency, the cost of travel, over there, for Americans, has increased. This increase is so heavy as to give pause to those American travelers whose circumstances impel them to count the cost. William Sprule, president of the Southern Pacific railroad, who has just returned from a tour of Europe, makes this observation. He thinks that the higher cost of touring Europe will check the flow of tourist travel from this country across the Atlantic. In consequence, the Pacific West should receive a much heavier volume of tourist travel.

Aside from seeing more ancient historical places and objects, American tourists have nothing to gain by crossing the Atlantic, instead of seeing America. For scenery and for touring delights, America is the peer of Europe, perhaps its superior. There is every variety of scenery in this country that is found in Europe, except, of course, ancient castles and centuries-old relics. There is plenty of distance here. There are thousands of miles of splendid highways, over which automobiles may move with ease and with comfort to tourists. There is excellent railroad service. There is good motor-stage service. And soon there will be passenger air service. The means of transport in this country cannot be excelled anywhere.

There is a thrill for Americans in viewing their own country. They feel a proprietary interest in what they see. As individual parts of the 120,000,000 population, they ARE proprietors of this country. There is much to see in the United States. It requires many vacation or sightseeing trips to see even the most widely known which are beautiful, and well worth visiting.

"See America First" is a good slogan—and a good rule to follow.

Worth While Verse

OH, WHERE DO FAIRIES HIDE THEIR HEADS

Oh! Where do fairies hide their heads
When snow lies on the hills,
When frost has spoiled their mossy beds,
And crystalized their rills?

Perhaps, in small blue diving bells
They plunge beneath the waves,
Inhabiting the wreathed shells
That lie in coral caves.
Perhaps in red Vesuvius
Carousals they maintain;
And cheer their little spirits thus,
Till green leaves come again.

WHAT FOR TAXES?

What is it that we buy with local taxes that we don't buy with federal taxes?

Local government expenses are all bound up with local habits of living. If there were a city in which there were no automobiles, that city wouldn't have to levy taxes to pay for traffic control lights, nor for traffic cops, nor for one-tenth as much paving as the cities that have automobiles.

Unfortunately for those who would reduce the expense of local government and hence decrease local taxes without regard to what tax money is used for, there is no city in which the people are willing to go without automobiles.

And when they have the automobiles they have to have the things that go with them and taxes have to be levied for the longer and wider and thicker pavements and the longer sewers and for the traffic lights, and so on.

It doesn't end there. With the streets so dangerous for the children to play in, the city must have more playgrounds to keep them from being killed; and so on with the direct and the indirect influence of not only the automobile but of a hundred modern additions to the complexity of city life.

The National Industrial Conference board in its elaborate study of "Cost of Government of the United States" found that the cost of local government had increased from 5.8 per cent of the national income in 1913 to 8.5 per cent in 1923—measuring in dollars without adjustment for varied purchasing power—but in connection with that apparently disturbing fact said:

"With every advance in the stage of civilization, collective activities rise with it, as one is in a large measure a reflection of the other. Increasing amounts spent on education, good roads, recreation, improved methods of public protection and sanitation, etc., are in themselves the criteria of relative progress and welfare."

In local government we are spending about five billions of dollars a year, more than a billion more than the federal government is now spending.

The collective activities of which we are demanding more and better services are local and not federal in character. The federal government has demobilized, for the most part, the war machinery that sent its expenditures to such dizzy heights, and is reducing its war debt charges by paying off its debt, by refunding it at a lower rate of interest, and by funding its foreign loans. Yet the demands for service are such that, exclusive of reductions on account of the national debt, we have been warned by Senator Smoot and by Representative Madden that there can be little prospect of reductions in the actual expenditures of the federal establishment.

In the local governments there are no such opportunities for reduction. The war interrupted and postponed many necessary local governments. Most cities have not yet caught up with the demands for school buildings and street improvements, to say nothing of the new demands occasioned by growth in population and enlargement in area.

Five billions is a whole lot of money. That is what the local governments are collecting in taxes. It is much more than the federal government collects.

Five billions is only a little bit less than the American annual expenditure for chewing gum, candy, cigarettes, cosmetics and jewelry. The national bill for these things in 1924, and it probably isn't much less now than it was three years ago, was $5,552,000,000.

The biggest item in the local tax account is schools—amounting to two billions. That is supposed to represent a productive expenditure. With education the children of the nation are supposed to be better prepared to make money with which to pay for things they will need, and no community will be willing to stop the schools.

Perhaps in that better preparation for life there may be provision for still further increase of income, so that even if local government taxes should go up to where they would be as big even as the candy and cigarette, cosmetic and chewing gum and jewelry bills that a way will be found to pay.

Did You Ever Stop to Think

By Edson R. Walte, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce

THAT home ownership improves the stability and public spirit of the citizens.

THAT building and loan associations prove of incalculable benefit to the upbuilding of a city.

THAT they provide an opportunity for small investors to invest in a proposition that brings good returns.

THAT they provide funds for the erection of new homes on a small monthly payment plan.

THAT a home can be paid for with rent money.

THAT if you are paying rent, the time to buy or build your own home is NOW.

YOU WILL ALWAYS HAVE TO RENT OR OWN, WHY NOT OWN?

First Queen Here

The first queen ever to pay a call on California, research in the state library here reveals, was Queen Emma of Hawaii. She sailed into San Francisco bay in 1866 as the guest of the Pacific Mail Steamship company. Although she paid no steamer fare, Fort Point fired a salute of 21 guns when her ship passed the Golden Gate, and a vessel of the United States navy escorted her to the wharf. In addition, she was accorded an honor seldom extended to visiting royalty these days—she was serenaded at her hotel by the best brass band in San Francisco.—Sacramento Union.

Spring Force

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

"I DON'T know what to do with Marie," said a lady to me. "She's positively possessed to take off half her clothes these warm days and I'm so afraid she'll catch cold!" I smiled, because Joan was possessed too, and so was Billy Penn, and the whole neighborhood seemed infected with the back-to-nature impulse. One has to use reason, of course, in properly clothing the child, but I do think our overcareful impulse is to bundle him up too well. We forget that his little body is really warmer than ours, and that he is far more active. How hot we'd be if we ran and played as children do!

WHEN 'twas warm I did dislike a hat and coat.
And especially I buttoned 'round my throat.
Seemed I simply couldn't play.
Then one lovely sunny day
I saw wee green grasses growing.
'Cross the sky the clouds were blowing
I saw wee green grasses growing.
White as chalk.

Little maple buds were peeping
And I saw an earthworm creeping
On the walk.
'So I called, "I'm so hot, Mother!"
And she laughed, "You dearest bother."
You may take off just your hat."
And that was that!

Still, when days got warm I did dislike a coat.
Even tho' it wasn't buttoned 'round my throat.
Seemed I simply couldn't run.
Or to have a bit o' fun,
When my feet went tapping, tapping,
Why my coat kept flapping, flapping
Round my knees.

All the time that I was playing
Baby maple leaves were swaying
In the breeze.
'So I called, "I'm so hot, Mother!"
And she laughed, "You precious bother."
Just take off your coat and hat."

And she laughed, "You precious bother."
Just take off your coat and hat."

And she laughed, "You precious bother."
Just take off your coat and hat."

And she laughed, "You precious bother."
Just take off your coat and hat."
